U.S. Troops Poised For Alabama Trouble Uncertainty Still Gripping City, New Birmingham Violence Occurs

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Un-

tinued to grip this racially troubled city today as 3,000 combat-ready troops stood within striking distance in the event of new outbreaks of major violence.

Scattered violence was reported during the night. Two persons were hurt. Automobile windshields were smashed and windows were broken in about a dozen buildings.

County Planning Board Will Be Discussed May 21

Supervisor Clarence C. Raiche, chairman of the Industrial Development Committee of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, announced today that the committee will meet Tuesday, May 21 at 7:30 p. m. at the court house for the purpose of discussing the proposed County Planning Board for Ulster County.

The County Planning Board proposal was brought before the recent meeting of the supervisors by Raymond and May Associates, planning experts. They told the supervisors that Ulster County was the only county in the area which did not have a planning board. Such a board when it becomes a unit of the regional group could be eligible for state and federal assistance.

Needed for Growth
The planning experts said the Hudson Valley in the Ulster County area is on the threshold of its greatest years and should be in a position to take advantage of industrial and development growth.

Several supervisors have stated that when a planning board is approved it should be comprised of two residents of the City of

Kingston High Band Gets Perfect Score In State Concerts

Kingston High School Concert Band received an "A" rating playing grade six music in state concerts at Saratoga Springs Saturday. Out of a possible score of 240, the band scored 240 points.

The three numbers played were "Washington Post March" by John Philip Sousa, "Chester Overture" by William Shuman and "Symphonic Suite" by Clifton Williams.

The band received straight "A's" on all three selections on tone, intonation, technique, rhythm, balance and interpretation.

Marlin E. Morrette is the band conductor.

The judges were Prof. Walter Beeler, conductor of the Ithaca College Symphonic Band, and Prof. Burton Stanley, band director of Potsdam State Teachers College.

Asking U.S. For 580 More Miles of Road

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep.
Carleton J. King, R-N.Y., is asking Congress to authorize construction of another 580 miles of interstate highway in New York State.

King said Monday he had introduced a bill to that effect and said it could clear the way for an expressway from Watertown to Plattsburgh along the state's northern border.

The New York State Legislature earlier this year approved construction of a superhighway in Northern New York but made the project contingent on its becoming part of the federal interstate system.

The federal government normally pays 90 percent of the cost of interstate-system highways.

Seek Thruway Costs
The 580-mile-long New York Thruway, built with state funds, has been made a part of the interstate system. New York members of Congress long have sought reimbursement for the state for 90 percent of the money it spent on the Thruway.

King's measure would give states additional interstate mileage to compensate for any toll roads, such as the Thruway, taken for the interstate system. Sens.
Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B.
Keating, New York Republicans, introduced similar legislation previously.

No state has been reimbursed for toll roads made part of the federal interstate system.

Fisher Is Guilty, To Be Sentenced By Mino May 27th

Henry J. Fisher, a former case supervisor in the Ulster County Welfare Department, accused by the grand jury in a 59-count indictment with first degree grand larceny and second degree forgery, entered a plea of guilty to the grand larceny count of the indictment Monday afternoon.

Imposition of sentence was postponed pending receipt of pre-sentence report by the Ulster County Probation Department.

Fisher was indicted under one count of grand larceny and 58 counts of forgery, growing out of the alleged cashing of relief checks while he was employed in the welfare department. He was represented by Vincent G.
Connelly.

County Judge Raymond J.
Mino will impose sentence on May 27 at 2 p. m.

Several other criminal cases were put over until May 27 at 2 p. m.

Other Dispositions
Among the matters disposed of by County Judge Mino Monday afternoon were:

Harold May, charged with third degree burglary, petit larceny, unlawful entry and carrying a dangerous weapon. A plea of guilty to third degree burglary was entered and sentence will be imposed May 27 at 2 p. m. Alex Nirenberg appeared for May.

Albert Scarpelli, presently serving time in Orange County jail, entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny under a burglary, petit larceny and unlawful entry

U.S. Cancels Three Nevada Explosions

By HARRY KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has abruptly canceled three explosions at its Nevada nuclear testing site. The action followed word "at President Kennedy is studying a new note from Soviet Premier Khrushchev on test ban negotiations.

A White House spokesman denied there was any relationship between the two developments.

No Explanation

Without explanation, the Atomic Energy Commission announced Monday that it and the Defense Department were calling off
"three small sub-kiloton detona-tions" which had been scheduled for this month.

Two were to involve nuclear devices, the third a chemical high explosive.

Radio Moscow had complained that the U.S. tests were aimed at producing new types of nuclear weapons and added in a veiled threat:

"One thing is clear, the USSR is not going to stand by idly watching the U.S. perfect its nuclear weapons."

U.S. Sources said the Khrushchev letter made no change in the Soviet position on a nuclear test ban—"it moves neither forward or backward."

The letter, also addressed to British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, made no mention of a threat Khrushchev had made to withdraw his offer to permit two or three inspections on Soviet soil to police a ban agreement.

The letter was in response to a message last month from Kennedy and Macmillan urging Khrushchev to help get the Geneva test ban talks off dead

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said Kennedy received the Moscow note shortly after his news conference Wednesday.

the President said he was "not

Countdown 12 Minutes From Florida Launch Will Check Bermuda Radar Later, Diesel Engine 1st to Hold Up Try

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—
Gordon Cooper's space mission
—22 orbits in 34 hours—was postponed today because of a faulty radar unit in Bermuda. Space agency officials rescheduled the shot for 8 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Conditional Time

Walter Williams, Project Mercury operation director, said there was a condition. He said another look would be taken at the Bermuda radar situation at 6 p.m.
EST today to make sure it would be ready for a launch Wednesday.

"This is a mandatory radar data system, a prime backup," he said.

He said at T minus 60 minutes, the hold period, the Bermuda radar was dropping some data but still was usable. Later he said it was cured during the hold for the diesel engine repair.

The Bermuda data is fed right into computers here at the control center, he said in answer to questions of newsmen.

The effort was called off for the day at 9:57 a. m. as Cooper, 36-year-old Air Force major, waited out the countdown while sealed in his tiny Faith 7 spacecraft atop the fully fueled Atlas booster.

Over 2-Hour Delay
The countdown had progressed to within 12 minutes of launching.
The postponement came as an anticlimax after earlier troubles had held up the scheduled launching for two hours and nine minutes.

That trouble was caused by a diesel engine designed to move the giant service tower away from the launching pad. It was necessary to replace a fuel pump and purge foreign matter from the fuel line before the engine could operate.

Indications of the radar trouble came only about 15 minutes before the launching was called off.
The tracking station at Bermuda said it was experiencing intermittent difficulty, but Mercury Control officials decided to continue the countdown in case the radar could be repaired.

But technicians at Bermuda reported minutes later that it would be impossible to replace the equipment today, and the shot was called off.

The radar is a 12-foot diameter dish designed to send radio signals to the spacecraft as it rises over Bermuda about five minutes after launching.

Essential Data
The signals trigger a device called a radio transponder in the spacecraft. By measuring the time it takes a signal to travel from the Bermuda station to the spacecraft and then back to Bermuda, computers can determine precise velocity and the altitude of the astronaut's vehicle.

This information would be essential for determining whether Cooper had achieved the proper orbital course. If the desired path is not achieved, Bermuda then sends a signal to bring Cooper out of orbit immediately.

Cooper had been sitting in his cramped capsule for four hours and 21 minutes. He had entered the capsule after breakfast and a final physical examination.

The astronaut was to be taken down from his Faith 7 capsule and returned to his special reading room quarters in Hangar S, about three miles from the launching pad. It was expected to take the launch crew about an hour to roll the service tower back around the Atlas and then remove the capsule hatch to release Cooper.

Coop in High Spirits
There was no immediate comment from the astronaut on the postponement. "He was reported in good spirits and anxious to go as the countdown moved on, only to stumble over the technical roadblock."

Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John H. Glenn Jr., experienced similar frustrations in having their launchings called off at one time after they were on the couches of their space capsules.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., Malcolm
Scott Carpenter, and Walter M.
Schirra Jr., also went through postponements, but all occurred before they entered the capsule.

The postponement today was the fourth in four months for Cooper's mission.

It originally was scheduled for February, but a shortage of funds resulted in cutback of overtime and the February date slipped until April 2. A subsequent need to alter electrical wiring in the Atlas autopilot pushed the date to May 7. Another week's delay occurred when trouble developed with gyroscopes in the Atlas guidance system.

Disappoints Many
Today's postponement disappointed Project Mercury officials, more than 700 newsmen gathered at Cape Canaveral to cover the shot, and millions watching television and listening to radio around the world.

A large recovery fleet of 28 ships, 125 planes and 19,000 men was strung out around the world to recover the astronaut no matter where he landed. It will remain on station until the launching is rescheduled.

ble at Bermuda threw a monkey

Tentative Kingston School Budget Is $6,716,950; Tax Rate $40.58

A tentative school budget for 1963-64 for the Kingston School District, Consolidated, was discussed at a special meeting of the board of education Monday night. The gross budget for the next school year is estimated at $6,716,950, an increase of $471-555 over the current gross budget of $6,245,395.

Estimated revenue for 1963-64 is $3,438,045, an increase of $372-626 over the 1962-63 revenue of $3,065,410, leaving a tentative net budget to be raised by direct taxes of $3,278,905, an increase of $98,292 over the 1962-63 amount of $3,179,976.

Andrew T. Gilday, president of the board of education, stated that this tentative increase in the amount to be raised by direct tax would increase the school tax rate of $39.26 by about $1.32

if the assessed valuation remains approximately the same next year as during the present year.
Lawrence J. MacAvery, city assessor, has estimated that there probably will be very little change in the overall assessed valuation in the city and on that information Mayor John J.
Schwenk has informed the board of education that city assessments will remain approximately the same for 1963-64 school tax purposes.

In stating that the increase in school tax rate would be approximately $1.32 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, President Gilday was speaking in relation to the tentative figures now available and on the statement that assessed valuations would remain static.

The tentative budget must be given public hearing prior to final adoption and the board may, after a public hearing, alter the figures either upward or downward according to the final needs.

It was pointed out that the basic additions to the budget for the coming school year were brought about by the increased cost of operation of the new J. Watson Bailey school which must be staffed with additional teachers, additional custodians and administrative workers.

The estimated increase in state aid for next year is approximately $283,000.

President Gilday pointed out that the exact school tax rate could not be determined until after the public hearing on the budget and adoption of a final budget and also after the city tax rolls are completed August first.

5 Teachers Die in Cabin, Carbon Monoxide Victims

RAQUETTE LAKE, N.Y. (AP)
—A pathologist says five men whose bodies were found in an Adirondack Mountain cabin Monday apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning early Saturday.

The five, all schoolteachers, had gone to the cabin near here Friday for a weekend of relaxing and fishing.

Dr. James Uterback of Saranac Lake, the pathologist, said Monday night after preliminary autopsies that death was "presumed due to prolonged inhalation of a relatively low but lethal concentration of carbon monoxide generated during apparently faulty operation of a gas-flame refrigerator."

Four of the men taught in the Manchester School of the Red Jacket School District, about 20 miles east of Rochester. The other taught in an elementary school in the Rochester suburb of Penfield.

They were:
Joseph Natoli, 45, of Shortsville, father of four and an industrial-arts teacher at Manchester. He owned the cabin.

Frank De Pietro, 26, and his twin, David, both of East Roches-

Mayor John J. Schwenk today announced that the State Board of Equalization and Assessment has decided to prepare special equalization rates for school tax purposes in the Kingston Consolidated School District.

The mayor and the education board earlier this year announced opposing views as to the need for special rates, and the mayor today noted that "When the Kingston Consolidated School District Board failed to apply for such rates," he wrote to the equalization board to inform them that:

1. The use of outdated town rates would impose a heavy and disproportionate share of the consolidated school district tax load on Kingston property owners;

2. Even under the special rate in effect for the 1962-63 school year, Kingston taxpayers have paid $1,690,157, or more than 50 percent of the consolidated district school tax;

3. The Board of Equalization and Assessment apply special rates for school tax purposes in behalf of the taxpayers of the City of Kingston.

Today, the mayor received a letter from Rosalind G. Baldwin, executive director of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment, which said:

"In accordance with our telephone conversations, our counsel has reviewed your letters of March 8 and March 18, and has concluded that the state board will consider your letters as an application for special equalization rates for the Kingston City School District tax levy for the year 1963-64."

Law Program Is Held by Ulster Kiwanis Monday

Members of the Ulster Kiwanis Club participated in a Law Program at their regular meeting Monday night in Aiello's Restaurant.

Robert Stedje served as program chairman by appointment by Sam Levine, club program chairman. The Law Program was presented by Seymour Werbalowsky, who discussed Civil Laws and Civil Courts; and John Schick, who spoke on Criminal Law. A question-and-answer period followed.

Club members were honored by a visit from former Kingstonian Clarence Rowland, now a resident of Camden, S. C. where he is a Kiwanian. Rowland has been a Kiwanian for 41 years. Interclub visitors from Kingston included Benjamin Sherman, John Spinnewebber, Zale Liese and Arnold Alder.

Two new Ulster Club members, Ira Franzblau and Ronald Cline, were welcomed into the club.

Guidelines Given to Avoid Tieup

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-man presidential panel laid down broad guidelines today for gradual removal of most firemen from freight and yard trains, central issue in a work rules dispute that threatens a nationwide rail strike June 12.

In a report to President Kennedy, the panel said the issues between the railroads and the five operating brotherhoods have been narrowed, and an agreement can be reached in the next 30 days if both sides will bargain realistically.

30 Days Vital
"The next 30 days will be important not only to the parties, but also to the nation, and to the future of collective bargaining as an effective method of disputes settlement. Although the general public is not a formal party to this dispute, each citizen in the United States has an acute interest in its resolution," the report said.

The central issue is the recommendation of an earlier presidential commission—named by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower—which proposed eliminating 40,000 firemen from freight and yard trains.

The railroads contend outmoded work rules cost them $600 million each year. They call these rules "featherbedding."

The railroads accepted the proposal of the earlier presidential commission, which called for substantial benefits for the eliminated firemen, but the unions rejected them.

Could Combine Work
As a result of negotiations within the last month, the three-man panel said the railroads have agreed that the bulk of the work performed by firemen on freight diesels is necessary, but that in most cases it can be combined with work performed by other employees.

"On the other hand," the report added, "The brotherhoods do not contend there are no jobs presently occupied by firemen which cannot be abolished."

"The basic problem, therefore, becomes one of establishing a procedure for ascertaining those situations, if any, which will continue to require the presence of a fireman in order to assure adequate safety, and to prevent placing an undue burden upon the remaining crew members."

The continued use of firemen on passenger trains is not an issue in the dispute.

NEW YORK (AP)—Saying that "in effect, we are stealing from our grandchildren in order to satisfy our desires of today," former President Dwight D. Eisenhower accuses the Kennedy administration of "spending for spending's sake."

Eisenhower's comments, in an article in the Saturday Evening Post's current edition, were some of his sharpest criticisms yet of his successor in the White House.

Cites Clear Danger
The former president said his "sense of duty as a citizen demands that I speak out bluntly regarding what I believe to be a clear danger which could threaten our free way of life and our security as a nation."

"That threat," he said, "is the determined effort of our current political leaders to commit the United States to a risky, highly experimental fiscal adventure, based on a questionable theory which I call 'spending for spending's sake.'"

Eisenhower called attention to the administration's $98.8-billion budget, its proposed tax cut which he said would reach more than $10 billion a year by 1965, and a fiscal deficit which he said will total $11.9 billion.

"My first reaction to these proposals was one of amazement—and no doubt many other Americans reacted the same way," he wrote.

"What can those people in Washington be thinking about? Why would they deliberately do this to our country? I asked myself."

Favors Budget Cut
Saying he favors a tax cut, combined with a cut in spending, Eisenhower said: "I still insist that the proposed budget is extravagant and can be cut by billions of dollars without harming a single essential federal function."

Many budget items have become distended beyond reason, he said. As an example, he mentioned that subsidies, originally intended as a wartime production incentive, have become imbedded in the farm economy and comprise much of the $5.7 billion allotted for agriculture.

He advocated an "orderly step-by-step" procedure in the nation's space effort rather than "launching wildly into crash programs on many fronts."

"This," he said of the space program, "is where we seem to have got out of focus."

He made reference to what he termed "stunts and unnecessary contests."

Eisenhower asserted that "if enough citizens write to their representatives and senators asking why they have been voting so much money for racing to the moon, farm subsidies, and even for defense, Congress will get the message."

Radar Credited In Lower Road Toll In Dutchess

A step up in the use of radar including single patrol car operations at night by State Police, has been credited by Sergeant Frank J. Simonis, head of Troop K Traffic Division, with helping to reduce serious highway accidents in Dutchess County.

Sgt. Simonis noted that the 1963 highway death toll in Dutchess this year is six, 10 less than the 15 traffic deaths in that county at this time in 1962.

The Traffic Division head said that the single patrol car radar operations at night are being used on a trial basis, and complement the two-car, radar system operation in the daytime. Sergeant Simonis stated that in addition to extensive use of radar, state police will attempt to curtail speeders by starting a Harlem Valley motorcycle patrol from the Brewster barracks on Wednesday.

Cooper Will Try Again Wednesday

wrench into today's plans, officials had been confident. They announced that they were changing the latest possible launch time from 10:30 a.m. until noon, giving scientists an extra 90 minutes to get the rocket off the ground.

The announcement said the launch period was extended because of favorable weather reports from recovery areas around the world.

Minutes later the giant service tower began moving away from the 93-foot tall Atlas-capsule combination. Cooper entered his spacecraft, which he named Faith 7, at 5:36 a.m. At the time, the countdown was proceeding smoothly toward a planned 8 a.m. blastoff. But when the count reached minus 60 minutes, the moment when the service gantry was to be pulled away, the diesel engine which drives it refused to start.

A hold was called in the count, and a check of the engine disclosed impurities in the fuel pump and fuel line of the 275-horsepower unit. The pump was replaced, the line purged and a new supply of fuel put in. This required two hours, 9 minutes.

Family in Texas
As the count resumed, Cooper was reported in good condition.

In Houston, Tex., the astronaut's wife and two teenage daughters slipped coffee and orange juice during the delay. Mrs. Trudy Cooper and the girls, alone in their ranch style home 25 miles east of downtown Houston, had arisen at 5 a.m. CST but because of the delay, they still had not eaten breakfast two hours later.

Word that the launching, which had been going so smoothly, had been delayed, came in an announcement from Mercury Control. At the same time Mercury Control Center reported that a power cord—called an umbilical cord—accidentally disconnected from the spacecraft. This problem was corrected in about 15 minutes but at 7:30 a.m. the service tower problem had not been solved. The umbilical line feeds electrical power to the capsule until just before lift-off.

It was the first time within the memory of veteran missile reporters here that a service tower failed to move back on a major launching.

The service tower is 123 feet tall and weighs 450 tons. The diesel engine moves it on railroad tracks at a maximum speed of 5 miles an hour. Before launch, it is transported to a point about 500 feet from the rocket and locked in place on the tracks.

Once the gantry is moved away, the Atlas still must go through its most critical countdown checklist, including the loading of the volatile liquid oxygen which serves as an oxidizer for the missile fuel once the atlas rises above the oxygen-free atmosphere.

Eager to Fly
The astronaut was eager to fly as he slipped into his capsule couch.

Cooper's mission: a 34-hour, 19-minute flight that would whirl him 22 times around the globe. Clouds, scudding before a moderate wind, dotted the sky as the astronaut was sealed into Faith 7. The weather still posed a threat to Cooper's launching.

Cooper was awakened at 2:50 a.m. He showered, shaved and ate the traditional flight-day breakfast of the astronauts: orange juice, scrambled eggs, a small steak and toast. His breakfast companions were astronauts Walt-

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Frank H. Simpson Funeral Home, 411 Albany Avenue.

OAS Group Back For New Look

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A peace mission of the Organization of American States arrived Monday night for another look at the Haitian-Dominican crisis, eased further by the Dominican Republic's announcement that it is withdrawing its troops from the Haitian border.

Vow Assassination
Part of the OAS fact-finding team was to fly on today to Port au Prince, where opponents of President Francois Duvalier have vowed to assassinate him by Wednesday.

The Dominican government's announcement gave no reason for the troop pullback.

The main consideration apparently was Haiti's gradual release of captured Dominican troops who had taken refuge in Latin-American embassies in Port au Prince. Dominican President Juan Bosch rushed troops to the border two weeks ago after Haitian militia invaded the Dominican Embassy in search of refugees there.

AP correspondent William L. Ryan reported from Port au Prince that the consensus there was that Duvalier would survive to start a second presidential term despite opposition vows to destroy him.

Exodus Fears Uprising
Duvalier's first six-year term expires Wednesday. Although the Haitian constitution bars a president's re-election, he is to be inaugurated May 22 for a second six-year term to which he declared himself elected after a rigged election two years ago.

Air Force Seeking Man Who Called About Plane Wing

Stewart Field officials are looking for a man who spoke to Colonel Perry recently informing him that he had discovered a portion which was involved in a two-plane mishap over the Asokan area on May 2.

Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone today reported that the Air Force officials were anxious to ascertain the name of the man, Mayone said any information in regard to the finding of any major portions of the plane should be referred to the Ulster County sheriff's office which will pick up the parts and turn them over to Republic Aircraft.

Portions of the plane are still being recovered over a wide area. Navy divers are still, operating in the east basin of the Ashokan reservoir where witnesses report they saw a portion of one of the planes fall.

The second plane involved was found partially demolished at Spillway with the body of the pilot.

Only portions of the body of the second civilian test pilot have been found and it is believed he died in an explosion of the ship.

Authority to Be Asked of Solons On Plane Seizure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today President Kennedy will ask Congress for authority to retaliate if the British government seizes U.S. planes in a dispute over fares on North Atlantic air routes.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the bill would be sent to Congress later today.

He declined comment when asked if Democratic congressional leaders were asked to seek quick passage of the legislation when they met with the president for breakfast this morning. Salinger would only say that they were informed of the bill.

The British and several other foreign countries are trying to force Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines to charge increased fares over the North Atlantic routes, despite objections by the United States.

The higher rates had been agreed on by the International Air Transport Association last fall.

Julian Amery, British minister of aviation, Monday accused the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board of inciting the two airlines to "break our law." He told the House of Commons:

"The situation is unacceptable and cannot be allowed to continue."

He has threatened to confiscate American airlines landing in London.

Post Street Man Held With Three For Robbery, 1st

A Kingston man, accused as the fourth participant in the alleged robbery-assault of a Stone Ridge man last Wednesday, was ordered held for grand jury action Monday night on a felony charge of first degree robbery.

Gary Lewis, 20, of 2 Post Street, waived preliminary examination at his arraignment before Peace Justice Allan Dargie, Town of Esopus, shortly after he was arrested at his home by County Investigator Thomas Mayone and City Patrolman Frank Stip. He was committed to the county jail.

Mayone said Lewis was the fourth person wanted in the robbery-assault of Russell Leroy Miller, 49, of Stone Ridge.

The other three are also in the jail awaiting grand jury action. They are Vicle Mae Girard, 28, of 75 Hasbrouck Avenue; Gilbert Henderson, 24, of 43 Aubryn Street; and John W. Frazier, 37, no permanent home address.

Mayone said Miller told authorities he hired the quartet to drive him to New Jersey last Wednesday and paid for the gasoline to make the trip. He said they drove the car to Rosendale and along the Eddyville-De Witt Lake Road, where they assaulted him and took an undetermined amount of money from him.

Miller said they left him by the roadway, where he walked to a service station to report the incident.

Mayone identified Lewis as the owner and driver of the car. The others were arrested shortly after the investigation began. Mayone said Lewis' arrest closes the case.

Insurance Rates

How can some companies "save" you so much on auto premiums? What about standard vs. "merit-rated" coverage? And "discounts" for second cars, compact cars, etc? In the long run, you get exactly what you pay for. My advice is: choose an experienced agent who'll give you the right coverage before you have a claim. And—shop around! Senate Approves Funds for RS 70

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate approved unanimously Monday a compromise bill authorizing expenditures of $15.3 billion by the military services for new weapons and for research and development.

The measure, agreed on by a Senate-House Commerce committee last Friday, reconciles differences in separate bills previously passed by each branch. It goes now to the House for final action.

Included in the measure is $363.7 million not requested by the Defense department for development of the supersonic jet reconnaissance airplane known as the RS70.

Democrat Backs Sales Tax Vote In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP)—A Democrat pledged his vote today for an increase in the 4 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent, enhancing prospects of the Republican majority to pass the tax program.

"My people want the money from this tax increase for schools," said Rep. Erwin L. Murray, D-Cameron, in breaking the solid Democratic front against the increase.

Despite the apparent defection of seven Republican legislators, the GOP leadership's chances of rounding up the 106 votes needed to pass the $102.5 million tax increase appeared good.

The tax program was moved into position for a final vote after lengthy debate Monday night.

The House was to reconvene at 2 p. m., EDT; the Senate, at 2 p. m. The seven defectors left the GOP four votes short of 106—there are 109 members in the Republican majority—but Murray's vote narrowed the gap.

The GOP leaders believed, however, that only two or three of the seven would remain adamant about voting for the increase that Gov. Scranton says is needed to balance his $1.12 billion budget for 1963-64.

They voted with the Democrats last night in opposition to a successful move to rewrite Scranton's original tax program into the 5 per cent plan.

Scranton recommended the sales levy be boosted to 4½ per cent and extended to clothing, but his leaders said they couldn't put it across because of objections to taxing clothing purchases.

Besides the revision of the administration tax bill, the GOP changed the proposed one-cent-a-pack increase in the six-cent cigarette tax to a two-cent increase, expected to raise $26 million.

With the one per cent increase in the sales tax, that would raise about $128 million. Since Scranton estimated his need in new revenue to balance next year's general operating budget at $139 million, the GOP leadership expected to boost the 10 per cent emergency tax on liquor to 15 per cent to raise another $12 million.

However, that proposal will not be ready for a final vote before Wednesday.

NHRR Waxes Cool To Rocky's Plan

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—New Haven Railroad trustees have given a cool reception to New York Gov. Rockefeller's plan to aid the bankrupt line. They say it ignores the need for public support of commuter deficits.

The trustees said Monday they are willing to talk with New York officials about the plan, which Rockefeller says would give the road an added $5.5 million in income each year for their New York suburban commuter service.

But they said the discussion should include the question of public underwriting of commuter losses, which they said is the central issue.

The program, prepared by Rockefeller's secretary, William Ronan, and the Port of New York Authority, calls for an annual expenditure of $900,000 on new suburban equipment that will add air conditioned, modern cars to the line.

FOUR ROSES DISTILLERS CO., N.Y.C. • BLENDED WHISKEY, 86 PROOF • 60% GRAIN NEUTRAL SPIRITS

A penny can make your drink taste better.

A whiskey that stands up, a whiskey that won't wilt in ice, a whiskey that won't mix away in the mix, is a whiskey that makes a better drink.

Right?

Right. Four Roses is such a whiskey. It has to be. It's made to be. Starting with the choice of grain. Grades #1 and #2 only. The best there are, says the government.

And continuing with the special, costlier way it is blended with fine grain neutral spirits.

All for the one, worthy purpose of keeping that rare Four Roses character intact to the last tilt of the glass. (Prove it, for example, in your next old-fashioned.)

What's the penny got to do with all this?

The penny is about all the extra it costs per drink to invest in a bottle of Four Roses.

Considering the facts, this is not so much more to pay. Certainly not for a drink with so much more in it.

LAND ACQUISITION NOW

Those who live in California are learning that the distinction of being the most populous state is accompanied by grave responsibilities. This is nothing new to Californians; their swiftly increasing number have for some years presented them with a host of new problems. But now the difficulty is further underscored by the state's new status as the population giant rapidly becoming more gigantic.

One problem, common to many states but exaggerated in California because of the population rise, is that of land use. It is beginning to dawn on residents of the state that suitable recreation areas must be preserved not only for present day use but also for future generations.

Secretary of the Interior Udall called attention to this in a recent talk in San Francisco. He noted that the state must assume the "awesome responsibility" of "acquiring very soon all the open space our grandchildren and their children's children will need for recreation for all of California's future."

Perhaps Udall was exaggerating somewhat for effect. Society in the future may insist on public land acquisition no matter what the obstacles may be. But one thing can fairly be said: The longer society waits, the more difficult and costly such acquisition will be. In a practical sense, the secretary of the interior was quite right in saying that this generation has the responsibility. That applies, in some measure, to every state and also to the federal government.

CLOSING A LOOPHOLE

The Treasury Department hopes to close a loophole through which much tax revenue has escaped lately. This involves the tax on accrued interest that holders of U. S. savings bonds receive at the time the bonds are redeemed.

The Internal Revenue Service believes that bondholders, either through neglect or ignorance, have been failing to declare this income on their tax returns. The lost revenue is considerable.

There is good reason, then, for the IRS order that after October all Series E bonds cashed in will have to be marked with a taxpayer identification number. This number will in most instances be the same as the owner's social security identification. This will enable IRS, should the occasion arise, to make an audit comparison of tax return to savings bonds liquidated.

This news of more paper work and tax disclosure requirements will bring forth a sigh from those who can remember an earlier, less complicated day.

COMMON LANGUAGE

That tired old saw about necessity being the mother of invention continues to be accurate. One recent illustration of its truth has to do with the so-called electronic brains, the computers that perform a rapidly increasing variety of tasks in research and industry.

It seems that not all computers speak the same language. Instructions for processing data that has been fed into them must be in the right language or the computer will not function. This, at any rate, is the way it has been. Instructions have had to be rewritten when computer models were changed or added to. This is an expensive process, so expensive that in some cases it may cost as much as half a million dollars to rewrite an instructional program.

Enter necessity. Spurred by the need to reduce costs, a group of computer users and makers devised what they called Common Business Oriented Language — COBOL for short. Rewriting into COBOL costs only about a tenth as much as rewriting from one individual computer language to another.

One's thoughts naturally leap to the human parallel: Why doesn't someone invent a common language so that all men could speak to one another? The answer is that someone has. A number of international languages have been devised. Getting them used is another matter. In the case of hu-

'These Days'

THE ESCALATOR IS FOR MACY'S

Said Turvy to Topsy: "I think I begin to understand those politicians like Laborite Harold Wilson and Liberal Jo Grimond of Britain who want no part of a 'nuclear deterrent.' It's because they are actually in favor of having more power."

"That's like saying that if you are weaker, you are stronger," said Topsy. "It can't be true. Britannia never ruled the waves by refusing to have any part of battleships."

"But I assure you it is true," said Turvy. "I began to see the light the other night when I listened to Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina speak on the evolution of American power since 1947. We've been getting stronger all the time. Once we only had the A-bomb. Later on we got the H-bomb. We can now deliver these in manned airplanes, from Polaris submarines, and by automatic missiles. But the stronger we got, the weaker we got. And it wasn't because the Russians were catching up; actually, we're still way ahead of them in many ways. It's just that the more nuclear power you have, the more paralyzed you become."

"I still don't get it," said Topsy. "You could still knock Morro Castle over by letting an old-fashioned gunboat slide up to it. Why should we let our having atomic power paralyze us?"

"Haven't you heard of escalation?" asked Turvy. "If we were to send a gunboat to deal with Castro, the war might escalate up the scale. A shell from the gunboat might hit a Russian in Havana. That would make Khrushchev mad. He'd order Castro to send some of his Soviet lease-loaned planes into action. The conventional bombs would do for the moment. But the old-fashioned war would make both Moscow and Washington edgy. Pretty soon they'd be pushing buttons that would send atomic missiles hurtling at each other while Kennedy and Khrushchev simultaneously yelled 'liar' over the hot telephone wire."

"So, because of this escalation," asked Topsy, "we can't even hit Fidel with a powder puff? And for this we spend $50 billion a year on our military establishment?"

"Well, we're going to cure that," said Turvy. "If Senator Thurmond is right, we're about to escalate things in the other direction. We're phasing out our manned bombers, as the saying goes. We're dropping the idea of perfecting an anti-missile missile. We've given up the air-ground Skybolt. We're trying to make a fighter plane on the Detroit principle, with the same chassis for the Comet as for the Falcon—oops, I mean an identical fuselage for the Air Force and the Navy. The general idea is that when we've deescalated to the position of a second-class power we can begin throwing our weight around again."

"I begin to see the light," said Topsy. "India can fight Portuguese Goa because only sticks are involved in that kind of war. But if we were to send a single marine to Mauritania, it could knock over all the monkeys including those that are weighted with uranium 235."

"Exactly," said Turvy. "So the ideal is to work backward until you have the armed might of Monaco or Andorra. Then you can afford to be tough and to fight for your rights."

"It still doesn't seem logical," said Topsy. "But I see where one pundit argues that the Monroe Doctrine is only workable when Europe helps the U. S. to enforce it. It is then a three-legged, not a two-legged, stool."

"Like when France helped us enforce the Doctrine by sending Maximilian and Carlotta to Mexico as King and Queen of the Mexicans?" asked Topsy.

"You're out of order," said Topsy. "Now it's you who is asking the world to make sense."

"Well," said Turvy, "I own up to a sneaking desire to return to the days of old-fashioned logic. These escalation mongers actually get my goat. It never occurs to them that Khrushchev is just as afraid of escalating Fidel Castro into World War III—or World War Finis—as we are."

"So we could hit Morro Castle with a powder puff, after all," said Topsy.

"It could be easier than that," said Turvy. "Just take away Fidel Castro's oil."

Oxygen Lack Is Culprit Causing Mountain Sickness

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I live near sea level. Air travel doesn't bother me. But when I go to cities that have an elevation of around 6,000 feet, I get headache, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, and I can't sleep. Is there any medicine I can take?

A—You have described the typical symptoms of mountain sickness, which is more severe in some persons than in others. It is due to the fact that at high altitudes the air contains less oxygen than you are accustomed to breathing. When you are in an airplane at 14,000 to 18,000 feet above sea level, you would have even more severe symptoms if the cabin were not pressurized. You are able to tolerate this simulated height because you are not exerting yourself, and you are not in the air more than a few hours.

If you were to move to a high altitude to live, you should spend a few days at an altitude of 4,000 to 5,000 feet before going higher. If you are planning a short trip, you should get a good night's sleep before starting out.

Smoking and alcohol should be avoided while at a high altitude. More than the accustomed amount of rest, and a light diet for the first day or two, may help to minimize discomfort. Although most people become acclimatized to a high altitude, a few never do. There is no medicine for this condition.

Q—I recently gave birth to a mongoloid baby. What are my chances in another pregnancy of having a normal child?

A—Recent studies indicate that a woman under age of 25 who has had a mongoloid baby is 50 times as likely to have a second mongoloid as a woman who had not had such a child.

The chances of producing a second mongoloid gradually decrease as you get older.

Q—What is the cause of mononucleosis? What can be done for it?

A—Mononucleosis is an infectious disease that probably is spread, like measles, by close contact. The germ that causes it, possibly a virus, has not been identified. The disease starts with a loss of appetite and vague pains. There is fever and the lymph nodes, especially those in the neck, become enlarged and sore. There may be a sore throat.

The disease gets its name from the fact that a certain kind of white blood cell—the lymphocyte, which has a single nucleus—is found to be greatly increased in number in a blood count. The condition is self-limited, but the gradual return to full vigor may take two or three months. Recent reports indicate that cortisone and related hormones, when given early, will speed recovery.

Q—When a woman is on the delivery table in last stage of childbirth and an anesthetic is being given, is it possible for her to hear and understand what the doctor and nurse are telling her?

A—Yes it is possible, because during delivery the anesthetist never allows the anesthesia to be very deep. The object is only to take the sharp edge off the pains. The co-operation of the mother is essential at all times during delivery. During the partial anesthesia, however, the mother's thought processes and responses are noticeably slowed up.

man language, necessity will have to be the mother of usage. In other words, when enough human beings are persuaded that a common language is essential, mankind will speak a common language.

More Than One Way to Go to the Dogs

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON, (NEA) —

Comedian Dick Gregory's arrest in Birmingham, Ala., for leading an antisegregation march came after his appearance in Washington before the Americans for Democratic Action convention.

He said here then that he was going to Birmingham—that he had to go.

This 31-year-old St. Louis-born child of depression is bringing a new element into the 100-year old debate on race relations.

He calls this controversy "The Internal Monster. No foreign country can defeat it for us. We've got to defeat it ourselves."

"But if we do," he concludes on a more inspirational note, in sharp contrast to his usual line of bitter humor and irony, "it will then be the America the Beautiful that I learned to dream about when I was a kid five years old."

SATIRE AND SARCASM are tricky tools for any writer or speaker to use. But there are times when they are far more effective than righteous moralizing, sanctimonious preaching or appeals to reason.

When a situation has become so bad that it is ridiculous, cold sarcasm can be like a shock treatment to restore sanity.

That is the Dick Gregory method. You may not like it. But you have to recognize it as a fact of life.

Gregory is no longer just a night club entertainer doing an act, which is what he started out to be.

With his relief work in Mississippi and his forays into Alabama after the police dog attacks and use of high pressure hoses there, Gregory has become a crusading leader.

He can evoke sardonic laughter at what goes on in the South. But he voices his scorn at what goes on in the North, too.

"I'VE GOT TO GO TO ALABAMA," he declared to the ADA audience, and he was the only one in the ultra-liberal audience of civil rights crusaders who said it.

He wryly observed that: "They have just picked the first Negro astronaut. There will be no trouble in blasting him off. His problem is to get from California to Cape Canaveral. I was hoping we'd get a Negro airline pilot first, but we didn't."

"We jumped from the back of the bus to the moon in one hop. 'Why did I go to Mississippi?' he asks, and answers: 'If America would go to war tonight I'd go and I'd lie on the ground and shoot at some guy I've never met. I had to go to Mississippi.'"

"WHEN I WAS IN MISSISSIPPI," a policeman took my arm and led me across the street against a red light. I can't get that kind of service up North."

"When I was driving along in Mississippi I kept both eyes open—and that's a must. I stopped in front of one of the big houses where the whites live. And then about 200 yards back I saw the shacks where the colored people live. We can't get that close up North."

"In Greenwood, Miss., a town of 24,000, there is a hospital with 188 beds. A total of 138 of them are for whites though there are 20,000 Negroes there and not one Negro doctor."

"They talk about the Negro crime rate. We never lynched anybody. And watch television. What about Naked City and Gangbusters and the western?"

"There are only three ways to live—to work, to borrow or to steal. That's human nature."

"They talk about all the Negroes on relief. I was on relief for 20 years. There are thousands on relief. But give us jobs, give us schools and give us houses and we can relieve the white man of relief."

This is not pretty stuff. But it needs to be heard.

Looking at some of our modern, plush cafeterias, it is hard to remember that when this great American institution first came into existence it was very simple, and sometimes even crude. One of the earliest cafeterias was the Exchange Buffet, established in 1885 in New York City. The system was for men only and the customers had their orders filled at a central counter and ate at other counters while standing.

President's Use of Troops In Alabama Questioned

WASHINGTON — When Sen. John F. Kennedy was campaigning for the Presidency in 1960, critics said he was youthful and impulsive. They will say the same thing as they read that Mr. Kennedy issued a statement Sunday night ordering Federal troops to mobilize in Alabama to deal with future rioting or local disturbances.

The President didn't think this one through. In the case of the disputes with Gov. Faubus at Little Rock, Ark., in 1957 and Gov. Barnett at Oxford, Miss., in 1962, there was at least an alleged basis for the use of Federal troops—a supposed unwillingness on the part of the local authorities to obey a Federal court order. But Mr. Kennedy himself told his news conference only last week that no Federal statute was involved in the controversy at Birmingham, Ala., or have there been any Federal court orders whatsoever issued in the case.

Now the President is in the position of having nevertheless threatened the use of Federal military power to deal with local disorders that may arise. There is not the slightest legal basis for the use of such power under the Constitution unless requested by the state government. No statute grants such authority to the Chief Executive under the circumstances which have been reported from Alabama. For anyone in the government to order the use of Federal troops or any part of the Air Force for any purpose not sanctioned by the statutes is in itself a penal offense. A Federal law says:

"Whoever, except in cases and under circumstances expressly authorized by the Constitution or act of Congress, willfully uses any part of the Army or the Air Force as a posse comitatus or otherwise to execute the laws shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both."

Opinion in Footnote

The "United States Code Annotated" for 1963 contains a footnote referring to an opinion of the Attorney General dated Nov. 7, 1957, which says "the President's authority to use Federal troops under Section 332 and 333 of Title 10 is not impaired by this section."

But this was an opinion rendered in connection with the use of Federal troops where a Federal court order had been issued. There is a dispute among informed lawyers as to whether Federal troops can ever be used to enforce even a court order and they contend that it is really the responsibility of U.S. marshals. At least in that case a controversial legal point was involved.

So the whole action of President Kennedy rests on the foundation that he described in his public statement—namely, "Rioting, personal injuries, property damage and various reports of violence and brutality."

Governor's Message

But it is not the function of the Federal government to maintain order inside a state unless there is an "insurrection" against the United States. To preserve order is the responsibility of a state. Indeed, in the same morning newspapers in which the American people read of the President's orders to dispatch Federal troops to the Birmingham area there was published a message to President Kennedy from the Governor of Alabama, George Wallace. It was sent an hour after the President's announcement was made and read in part as follows:

"The Constitution of the United States . . . states that the Federal government may send troops to quell domestic violence upon application of the state legislature or the governor of a state."

"The Legislature of this state has made no request, nor have I. May I ask by what authority you would send Federal troops into this state? . . .

"The situation is well in hand and law and order prevail. . . your complete bypassing of state officials and me as governor are affronts not only to me as governor but to the people of Alabama."

An examination of the Federal statute cited later by the President—Section 333 of Title 10—shows no justification for the use by the President of Federal troops just to quell a local disturbance or to prevent one from arising. It applies only if a state government refuses or fails to grant protection, this hasn't happened.

Warning to State

The President in his reply to Gov. Wallace says, in effect, that he didn't really intend to use Federal troops in Birmingham, but only wanted to warn the state authorities that they had better maintain order and prevent violence. If any threat to use such power is vested in the President, he can at any time intimidate a governor or mayor or local official, or he can mobilize troops to threaten reprisals and punishment if anyone in a local government doesn't do his bidding. This is an autocratic power the exercise of which the framers of the Constitution specifically sought to prevent so that no dictatorship could arise in America through the threat to use military force.

If Mr. Kennedy feels that he has the power to prevent violence anywhere in the country, then it will be asked why no Federal troops were mobilized or why the same threat of military force was not utilized before Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and his associates, organized the demonstrations which, in turn, aroused the antagonism of other citizens and thus produced the conditions under which local disorder arose.

If the President actually has the power of prevention, the time to start is before the local police and the paraders clash or threaten to become involved in riots. There is a right, of course, to a peaceful demonstration, but anything which produces a disturbance is subject to police action by the local and not the Federal authorities.

By SOPHIE MITLER

Received an interesting letter from Mrs. John G. (Aline) Walz from St. Petersburg, Fla. Her home is the Old Post Road, West Esopus. She writes in part: "My son, John M. Walz of West Esopus sent me a clipping of your recent column in which you tell of activities here in St. Petersburg. An important organization not mentioned in your column is the Senior Citizens Club on Second Avenue N. E. to the approach to the Million Dollar Pier."

Mrs. Walz writes further: "From 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. every day (except Sunday, when it closes at 5 p. m.) there are activities to suit everyone. Square dances, round dances, dance lessons, shuffleboard, card games, lessons in card playing, stage shows, travelogues, even a library for the book worms. Here the seniors kick up their heels and have a grand time. Folks from every state in the Union are here as well as from Kingston, Rifton, Esopus, Lake Katrine, Peekskill, New York City."

She adds: "Another club is Mirror Lake Shuffleboard Club having more than 100 courts—many rooms for cards, TV, community sings, dances and a symphony orchestra. One never needs to be lonesome in good old St. Pete; if he or she is, it's their own fault."

Mrs. Walz of West Esopus further writes me: "In William's Park we have the Sunshine Band, conducted by Joseph Lefter four times a week. Then the Festival of States with its wonderful parade, and display of fireworks, and the Governor's Ball held at Guy Lombardo's."

fabulous Port O' Call on Tierra Verde Island just a short run from St. Petersburg."

Mrs. Walz goes on to say, "Ah, yes! This is a wonderful place to be especially when Kingston, and 'Shaupeeral Mountain' (West Esopus to some folks) is covered all over with snow. You do have wonderful scenery in your part of New York, the mountains in the spring and fall, and Kingston in winter, especially driving along Albany Avenue with the beautiful homes all white, snow falling gently. I felt as if I were one of those little glass paper weights we had as kids—jiggle the glass ball and snow would fall."

Mrs. Walz ends with "Forgive me for rambling on and on. Now I've made myself homesick so will fly back to Esopus, May 6th. Best wishes to you. I love your column, have read it for years and always found it interesting." Then she adds: "Most folks register at the Chamber of Commerce when they arrive for the season. Its the best way of locating friends and renewing acquaintances."

Three Upstate Cities Support Negro Cause

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Quiet demonstrations by about 450 persons were held in three Upstate cities over the weekend in support of racial integration efforts in Birmingham, Ala.

In Syracuse, about 250 Negroes and whites marched through the downtown section Sunday and held a prayer meeting on the steps of the Onondaga County Court House.

About 150 Negroes and whites marched through downtown Schenectady Saturday and heard speeches praising the courage of the demonstrators in Birmingham.

About 50 persons of both races took part in the Saturday demonstration in Utica. They marched in the rain six blocks to City Hall and circled the building, carrying signs urging racial equality in the South.

No incidents were reported at any of the demonstrations.

Gets Suspended Term For False Relief Data

Catherine Marie Totten, 45, of 81½ Vineyard Avenue, Highland, was arrested Monday by District Attorney Investigator Arthur H. Brown on a charge of violation of Section 145 of the Social Welfare Law, making false statements in order to receive relief.

It was alleged she had made false statements in regard to her financial responsibility to the Welfare Department back in 1961 when she applied for relief. For some 2½ years she had been receiving aid for a dependent child while she had funds in the bank.

The bank funds were turned in toward refund to the Welfare Department and when taken before Justice of the Peace Philip Schunk of Town of Lloyd a five-day jail sentence was imposed and suspended. Justice Schunk in suspending sentence warned the defendant that any future violation of the law would result in serving a jail sentence.

$58,723 Is Ulster Co. Share in State Welfare Program

Ulster County's share of the $17½ million distribution to public welfare districts in New York State is $58,723.42, it was announced today.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said a total of $17,448,410.38 is marked for distribution to the state's 65 public welfare districts.

These moneys represent additional federal and state share of the anticipated welfare expenditures by the localities for the quarter ending December 31, 1962. The federal share of these advances amounts to $10,226,141.22.

The share of the City of Poughkeepsie is $52,101.96, and the City of Newburgh, $29,163.91.

Other area counties and their share, respectively, include Dutchess, $42,680.72; Columbia, $38,203.96; Greene, $36,232.80; Delaware, $29,156.11; Sullivan, $54,789.64; and Orange, $70,690.79.

Dutchess Couple Found Guilty of Endangering Life

A Town of Hyde Park couple, accused of endangering the life or health of their five-year-old adopted daughter, was found guilty of the charge after a trial Monday in Dutchess County Court.

Nelson B. Merritt Jr. and Leona Merritt, Staatsburg, were remanded to the county jail for sentencing by Judge John R. Schwartz, May 29 in County Court.

They were named in a three-count joint indictment handed down by the January Grand Jury on March 27. The charge was an indictable misdemeanor. The people accused the couple of endangering the health and life of their adopted daughter, Bertha, now six, by letting her eat dog food, giving her improper food and treatment of wounds resulting from binding her hands, and by making her sleep and stay in a bath tub. The indictment said the offenses took place during a period between Sept. 1, 1962 and Feb. 26, 1963.

First Asst. District Attorney Eugene F. Frink tried the case for the people. Atty. Edward Filipowicz appeared for the defense. The jury gave its verdict after deliberating about three hours.

teacher at Manchester.

Patrick De Mare, 27, of East Rochester, who also taught sixth grade at Manchester.

Only Natoli was married. Di Pietro was an assistant basketball coach at Manchester, and Winter also took part in coaching athletics.

The news of their deaths hit hard at the small Red Jacket School District that includes the Ontario County villages of Manchester and Shortsville.

Supervising Principal Neil Harkender described the four men "excellent teachers and highly regarded by the pupils and their fellow teachers."

He canceled all classes and athletic and social events at the school for the remainder of the week.

"It's the least we can do to show their parents and friends how much we respected these men," he commented.

Harkender said he went to Natoli's home room after word of the tragedy had been passed through the schools.

"It was very upsetting," he said. "Some of the young girls were in tears and the boys were visibly upset. I've never experienced anything like it."

The Shortsville - Manchester - Chapin Council of Churches announced plans last night for a memorial service for the teachers Wednesday at the Shortsville Presbyterian Church.

The bodies were discovered by Dennis Dillon, Raquette Lake postmaster and owner of a general store. Mrs. Natoli telephoned him yesterday morning, said her husband was supposed to have returned home Sunday night and asked Dillon to look in on the men.

State Police said two of the men were in beds in the attic of the small cabin. The other three were in beds in the single room on the ground floor.

based on a statistical and evaluation study of every patient who has been treated, discharged and followed up by the institution in the 10 years of its existence.

Construction of the new wing was made possible through a bequest from the estate of the late Captain Vincent Astor in addition to substantial support from the Astor Foundation and a grant for research facilities from the National Institute for Mental Health. It not only enables the Astor Home to increase its child population from 35 to 50, but also to extend its services to emotionally disturbed girls from 6 to 9 years of age at the time of acceptance.

Room for Research

Until now these services have been confined to seriously disturbed boys of all races and creeds between the ages of 6 and 12. The new structure also has provided enlarged facilities for research and training in psychiatry, psychology, social casework and social group work, important adjuncts to the Home's program.

The dedication ceremonies will include the blessing by his Eminence of the interiors and exteriors of the new four story residence wing, the new two story research annex and the new 100 seat chapel of St. Vincent de Paul built in memory of Captain Astor.

His Eminence also will bless a mural in the cloister walk connecting the chapel with the new wing which depicts various scenes in the life of St. Vincent de Paul. The mural is the personal gift of Mrs. Astor as a memorial to her late husband.

Originally built by Captain Astor as a convalescent home for children, the Astor Home was transferred to the Archdiocese in January, 1953.

The specialized services of the Astor Home are carried on under the supervision of New York Catholic Charities by the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul and a staff of 63 lay persons.

NEW YORK (AP)—A vigorous rally by rails helped push an irregular stock market to the upside on balance early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Tobaccos also moved ahead in the wake of further price hikes in the industry.

The rails responded to news that a three-man presidential panel has laid down broad guidelines for gradual removal of most firemen from freight and yard trains—the central issue in a work rules dispute that threatens a nationwide rail strike June 12.

Erie to Open Thursday

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The Erie Canal, main line in the State Barge Canal system, will be opened to through traffic Thursday at 8 a.m.

A 29.5-mile section of the canal in Montgomery County has been closed for repairs to a dam serving Lock 12.

Traffic has moved on either side of the closed section but there has been no through traffic along the canal, which extends from Waterford, near Troy, to Lake Erie.

Don't 'Average Down' If Outlook Has Changed

Q) "We are a couple in our 50's and both work very hard. About 2 years ago we bought common stock for extra retirement income. We own American Machine and Foundry, Anken Chemical, and Basic Products—all purchased at very much higher prices. Our friends tell us to buy more to average a better cost. We are skeptical and confused. Can you advise us?" — M. G.

A) It is a very painful experience for a decent, hardworking couple like yourselves to suffer serious losses. I don't wonder that you're skeptical and confused.

The stocks you own are not bad stocks, but for one reason or another their outlook has deteriorated — and they have acted very poorly relative to the market as a whole.

I do not advise you to average down, since improvement for these stocks may be some distance away. I believe you should face this latter fact squarely, dispose of these issues, and buy conservative stocks such as Corn Products, Long Island Lighting, and Woolworth.

Q) "At 79, I am getting older every year like most other people, and I would like your opinion regarding a move I contemplate. I feel that ten years more would be the maximum for me and that I would do well to use up some of my capital, since I have no heirs. I own some shares now worth about $7,500. If I sold these and put the proceeds in the bank, I would have $750 a year to spread over the next ten years. Would you advise this?" — J. J.

A) It is always refreshing to meet a man of your age with such an undaunted spirit.

The move you contemplate has merit, but it would extinguish your $7,500 in ten years and you may, as I sincerely hope, live longer.

I suggest instead that you consider a straight annuity in which the principal reverts to the insurance company upon your death. This should pay you, at age 79, over $1,000 a year for your lifetime.

Lawrence Denies Seranton Charges On Mishandling

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Former Gov. David L. Lawrence has labeled as "incorrect and irresponsible" charges made by Gov. Seranton about the Lawrence Administration's alleged mishandling of the state's fiscal affairs.

Lawrence, however, left the bulk of Monday night's radio and television rebuttal to two Seranton Administration officials who also served while the Democrats controlled Harrisburg.

Speaking on a statewide network, Lawrence made his comments at the beginning of the 15-minute program and at the end, a total of about three minutes.

He accused Seranton of placing "blame where blame does not exist."

"The problems of Pennsylvania are too serious for such unfair complaints and untruthful assertions," he remarked. "It is the time for responsible action and not time for irresponsible abuse."

In a 30-minute radio-TV address on May 1 Seranton cited fiscal mismanagement by Lawrence as part of the reason for the governor's $139 million tax proposal.

Seranton said a $22 million deficit was the result of Lawrence Administration acts—padding payrolls, political favoritism, juggling of books and waste.

Lawrence contended Monday night he left office Jan. 15 not with a deficit but with a surplus of more than $10 million.

FOUR ONTEORA CENTRAL school students—three juniors and one senior attended the Governor's Conference on Children and Youth which was held at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake, New York. This is one of a series of eleven regional meetings held throughout New York State and designed to evaluate progress which has been made towards goals set by the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth and to examine new areas of concern at the regional level.

The student delegates were assigned to one of the following study groups: education, recreation, family, work, law, and health. Each study group presented their conclusions at a general assembly so that the ideas formulated by each group could be showed with the entire conference.

The following juniors were selected to represent Onteora at the conference: Sheila Aronofsky of Olive Bridge, William Fox of Olive Bridge, and Roger Segelken of Phenicia. Dorothea Tracey of Woodstock was the senior delegate. Thomas Fickus of the Guidance Department accompanied the delegates to the conference.

Presidential Reluctance Noted In Troop Use All Three Times

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—It seems clear that the disorderly forces a president wishes to control may feel free to cut loose unless he says flatly beforehand he will use troops to stop them, if he has to.

President Kennedy used troops in Mississippi and now has them on standby in Alabama. President Eisenhower used them at Little Rock. In each case there was presidential reluctance about employing them.

Rioting, Then Troops

In each case rioting began before the President decided to use troops.

Eisenhower even went so far in July 1957 as to tell reporters he could imagine no circumstances "that would ever induce me to send federal troops... to enforce the orders of a court."

Within three months Arkansas segregationist rioters kept Negro children from a Little Rock school which a federal court had ordered integrated. Not until then did Eisenhower use troops.

In 1962 a federal court ordered James H. Meredith, Negro, admitted to the University of Mississippi. State officials refused to comply. Mobs blocked U. S. marshals trying to take Meredith into the school.

Kennedy simply sent Meredith back with more marshals. Again there was rioting which lasted for hours and killed two men. Not until then did Kennedy send in troops. There were no more riots. In the Little Rock and Missisissippi cases the presidents used troops to carry out court orders. The Constitution says that a president "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

But no court order was involved in the mass demonstrations in Birmingham last week. Negroes were demanding equal treatment with whites. The demonstrations were not riots although they were getting increasingly explosive.

Because there was no court order and no rioting Kennedy was not under compulsion to employ troops.

Warning May Have Helped

But if he had warned he would send in troops if rioting started—as it eventually did—there might not subsequently have been any riots or any provocation which brought them on.

While the whole situation was still unpredictable last week—before the rioting started—Kennedy told his news conference:

"I've made it clear since assuming the presidency that I would use all available means to protect human rights and uphold the law of the land."

But then, while acknowledging the Birmingham problem was still not settled, he said the demonstrations involved no federal law. The lawless elements in Birmingham might have concluded from that that Kennedy lacked legal authority for using troops to keep order.

At week's end criminals bombed Birmingham Negro dwellings. Negroes rioted against white police. Negroes and police were injured. It was too late then to use troops to prevent disorders. There were none handy.

Authority Questioned

The rioting ended, perhaps temporarily, with the danger of exploding again at any time. Then Kennedy sent troops into Alabama, not into Birmingham, but to military bases near it.

Alabama's segregationist governor, George C. Wallace, instantly challenged Kennedy to explain his authority for using troops.

When Kennedy announced the troop movement Sunday night he had not explained his authority. Justice Department lawyers, when first asked about it by newsmen, beat around the bush.

They then gave this explanation: Kennedy was acting under federal authority—Title 10, Section 33, of the U. S. Code. It empowers a president to use troops to suppress "domestic violence, unlawful combination or conspiracy" if it interferes with, or denies, citizens of rights or protections guaranteed them by the Constitution.

Monday Kennedy messaged Wallace this same explanation. But Wallace insisted again, both at a news conference and in a second telegram to Kennedy, that the United States cannot legally call out Army units as long as state and local officers can and will put down violence.

The Justice Department further said the section of the code under which Kennedy acted was exactly the same law he invoked at the University of Mississippi and Eisenhower invoked at Little Rock, although in those two cases the troops were used to back up a court order.

Hopeful of Solution

LONDON (AP)—U.S. refusal to go along with an international agreement raising transatlantic tourist-class fares cannot be tolerated, British Aviation Minister Julian Amery says.

But Amery expressed hope Monday that a solution can be negotiated without resorting to seizure of American airlines as he had threatened. The British Embassy in Washington is negotiating with the State Department.

A 5 per cent fare increase, voted by members of the International Air Transport Association, went into effect Saturday. The U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board ordered American airlines not to apply it.

Junior-Senior Science Fair at Onteora Central

The annual Onteora Central Junior-Senior High Science Fair opened this morning and will continue throughout the day. Dr. Alfred Di Caprio, chairman of the Science Department, is in charge.

Pupils from grades seven through twelve will be present during the school day to demonstrate and explain their individual science projects and exhibits to members of the student body. These same pupils will again be available from 6:30 p. m. till 8:00 p. m. Tuesday evening to show their projects to parents and adult friends. Science rooms will be closed promptly at 8:00 p. m. to give the public an opportunity to adjourn to the auditorium for the Junior-High music concert being held the same evening.

The science projects will include experiments and studies in the fields of general science, biology, physics, and chemistry. Three of the six high-school laboratories will be the sites for the exhibit—rooms 122, 135 and 137. William T. Burgin, science instructor, is the teacher in charge. During the afternoon the projects will be judged and awards and certificates will be distributed to the winners.

This science fair is not intended to be a "public show" says Mr. Burgin. "Its purpose is to encourage the students to learn, to further interest in science, and to focus the attention of pupils on science experiences in school."

Christian Science Theme Is Immortality

A Bible Lesson on the subject of "Mortals and Immortals" will be read this Sunday at First Church of Christ Scientist in Woodstock.

Golden Text: "This corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality" (I Cor. 15:53).

Related headings from the Christian Science textbook include these lines: "Either here or hereafter, suffering or Science must destroy all illusions regarding life and mind, and regenerate material sense and self. The old man with his deeds must be put off" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 296).

W. Hurley P-TA Group Attends Spring Meeting

Officers and members of the executive board of the West Hurley P-TA attended the 20th annual spring conference of the Central Hudson District New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers at the Concord Hotel.

The conference theme was "Responsible Leadership." Members of various P-TA groups from Ulster, Rockland, Orange and Sullivan Counties also attended the meeting.

Representing the West Hurley P-TA were Mrs. Ernie Levine, advisor; Mrs. Helen Schwartz, president 1962-63; Mrs. Marjorie Anderson, vice president 1962-63; Mrs. Jody Collins, president 1963-64; Mrs. Muriel Burlingham, vice president 1963-64; Mrs. Lorraine Shultis, recording secretary, 1963-64; Mrs. Ruth Heisman, publicity chairman Mrs. Audrey Bagnall, chairman get-out-the-vote; Mrs. Ingrid Sternberg, legislative chairman; Mrs. Betty Lowe, hospitality chairman; Mrs. Roseanne Castaldo—hospitality co-chairman; Mrs. Elaine Frangello—co-chairman room mothers. Mrs. Mary Caughey chairman of the exceptional child division of the Central Hudson District P-TA who conducted a workshop on this topic at the conference. Mrs. Caughey is speech therapist for the Onteora district.

A panel discussion entitled "The Dropout and Unemployed Youth" was presented.

Moderator was Don Richardson, principal of Valley Central School. Panel members were Joseph Stessel—manager of New York State employment service, Rockland County; Dr. Dale Lake, president Ulster County Community College; Mrs. Arnold Paladin, vice president, New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers; and E. R. Keller, principal, Monticello High School. Mrs. Anne Larys, member of the Onteora Board of Education, and District Director of the Central Hudson District of New York State Congress of P-TA presided at the business meeting which followed a luncheon at the hotel.

and Mrs. Maryanne Rogers, secretary.

Mrs. Joy Bell, a kindergarten teacher, was guest speaker. She discussed the kindergarten program at the school, and demonstrated the new system of arithmetic readiness. She spoke of two factors that determine the degree of success each child might achieve: his own ability potential, and his past experiences. In conclusion, she suggested several ways of helping children to be prepared for their new experiences in school and feel secure in their surroundings.

Ogdensburg Gets $118,957 for Renewal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Urban Renewal Administration has approved a $118,957 loan to help Ogdensburg, N.Y., plan a 25-acre urban renewal project which could include the marina and park facilities along the St. Lawrence and Oswegatchie rivers.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., was advised today that the agency had also reserved $1,134,158 for work on the project in anticipation of a formal application from Ogdensburg housing officials.

The agency said all except 21 of the 117 dwelling units in the area are substandard. About 16 acres will be rehabilitated and the rest cleared.

Rail Merger Agreed

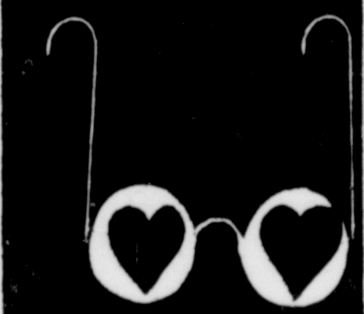

NEW YORK (AP)—The Union Pacific Railroad Co. and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co. Monday agreed to merge.

Part of the agreement calls for the Rock Island to sell its lines south and southwest of Kansas City, Mo., to the Southern Pacific Co. at an unspecified price.

The proposal was made public by management of the three carriers jointly after an eight-month study.

The announcement said that under the plan there would be an exchange of 718 of an authorized but unused common share of Union Pacific for each common share of Rock Island.

Heart specialists warn about our inactive youngsters

There's no doubt about it. We pamper our youngsters too much nowadays. They ride when they should walk. They sit when they should be moving. They watch when they should be participating. And all this inactivity is bad for them. Indeed, most leading heart specialists agree that today's inactive youngsters are likely to be candidates later on for diseases of the heart and blood vessels, overweight, and other disorders that feed on an easy-going existence. What better reason is there for parents to urge school officials to strengthen physical education programs—for every boy and every girl? Local school officials will be responsive to your interest. Get in touch with them. If you would like more information, write to The President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D.C.

Reassigned to Texas

JOSEPH A. BAKANOVIC JR.

LACKLAND AFB, Tex.—Airman Basic Joseph A. Bakanovic Jr. of Walkkill is being reassigned to Amarillo AFB, Tex., for technical training as a United States Air Force aircraft maintenance specialist.

Airman Bakanovic, who enlisted in the Air Force a short time ago, has completed his initial basic military training here.

The airman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Bakanovic Sr. of RD 3, Walkkill, is a 1962 graduate of Walkkill Central High School.

In West Coast Drill

YAKIMA FIRING CENTER, Wash.—Captain Anthony Gardecki of East Kingston, is a member of the Air Force element now participating in Exercise Coulee Crest, a United States Strike Command joint maneuver being held here through May 20. The operation involves more than 40,000 Air Force and Army troops.

Captain Gardecki is a pilot permanently assigned to a Tactical Air Command unit at Seymour Johnson AFB, N.C. He will return there upon completion of the exercise.

The captain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gardecki of Rt. 1, 299 Addis Street, East Kingston, is a graduate of Kingston High School. His wife is the former Coral E. Roberts from England. Exercise Coulee Crest is designed to perfect joint operating techniques for air and ground forces. The maneuvers will cover more than a million acres in central Washington and will include live firing exercises by both air and ground units.

With Defense Unit

HILL AFB, Utah—Staff Sergeant John P. Mlynsek of Shadyside, Ohio, is serving with the unique Air Force unit here which has the job of keeping America's air defenses constantly alert to the threat of attack from enemy aircraft.

Sergeant Mlynsek, an administrative technician, helps provide essential support services for the men and aircraft of the 467th Defense Systems Evaluation Squadron which fly "no notice" realistic attacks against the nation's radar warning network and put Air Defense Command fighter-interceptors to the toughest possible test.

The sergeant, son of Mrs. Mary Mlynsek of 37 E. 37th Street, Shadyside, is a graduate of Public High School, Powhatan, Ohio. His wife, Flossie, is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Lewis of 18 Maple Avenue, Highland.

Receives Reassignment

RICHARD D. PERKINS

LACKLAND AFB, Tex.—Airman Richard D. Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall T. Perkins of Perkins Trailer Park, Highland, is being reassigned to Greenville AFB, Miss., for technical training as a United States Air Force fire protection specialist.

Airman Perkins, who enlisted in the Air Force a short time ago, has completed his initial basic military training here.

The airman attended Highland High School.

In Naval Exercise

William J. Shann, III, journalist second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Shann Jr. of 233 Lucas Avenue, Kingston, recently took part in a large-scale naval exercise in the Mediterranean while serving aboard a guided missile cruiser. The exercise was held April 2-3 and involved 26 ships of the Sixth Fleet, America's major element of seapower in the European area. Dubbed REGEX 63, the operation was an air defense and submarine training exercise aimed at strengthening the combined force of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Cited as Outstanding

McCONNELL AFB, Kan.—Airman Third Class William A. Hart Jr. of Kingston, has been selected Outstanding Supply Man of the month here.

Airman Hart, was selected for the honor in recognition of his exemplary conduct and performance of duty.

The airman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hart Sr. of 36 Tietjen Avenue, Kingston, is a graduate of Kingston High School. He entered the service in July 1962.

Plastics Firm Is Swept by Blaze

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Fire, attributed by firemen to sparks igniting lacquer fumes, swept a plastics company on the city's west side Monday. Firemen estimated the damage at $200,000. No serious injuries were reported.

About 15 persons fled the 2½-story frame structure, which housed the Gondek Plastic Kitchen Top Co.

A new research laboratory has been set up at Beltsville, Md., by the government to study the effect on plants of growth regulating compounds and hormones.

Dental Care Stressed For Aging of Nation

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Dental treatment should be included in any health-care program for the aged—"the most dentally neglected people in American society," the president of the State Dental Society urged today.

Dr. Walter E. Taylor of Saranac Lake said the development of new portable equipment had enabled the dentist to treat aged persons who were home-bound in about the same time as in the office.

Taylor made his remarks in a speech at the 95th annual meeting of the society. About 2,500 persons are expected to attend the three-day meeting, which began today.

Faces Attica Term

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—R. L. Lofton, 42, found guilty of slaying his former girl friend after she left him, today faced a 7½-15 sentence at Attica State Prison.

Judge Frederick M. Marshall of Erie County Court said Monday in passing sentence that Lofton "coldly and deliberately hunted down" Minnie Lee Keener, 20, Lofton, of Lackawanna, was convicted last month of first-degree manslaughter.

Miss Keener, of Lackawanna, was shot April 7, 1962, outside the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant there.

Indicted in Shooting

NEWARK, N.Y. (AP)—Robert Bolkosky, 20, accused of shooting a man while investigating a report of a prowler on his father's property, was under a charge of first-degree manslaughter today.

Bolkosky, of Newark, was indicted Monday by a Wayne County grand jury. He was accused of shooting S. Creighton Greene, 39, of Newark last April 26.

Strike Averted by Agreement to Arbitration

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—A union-management agreement to submit a dispute over job-training procedures to arbitration ended the threat of a major strike today at the General Electric Co. plant here.

The strike could have idled the 8,900 union employees at the plant. Leo Jandreau, business agent for Local 301 of the International Union of Electrical Workers, announced the arbitration agreement Monday night and said he had asked the 600 men who walked off their jobs in the large steam-turbine generator department last Friday to return to work today.

The company said it had agreed, at the union's request, to set up an emergency meeting in the next few days in New York City to discuss the job-training procedures.

The company said it had agreed, at the union's request, to set up an emergency meeting in the next few days in New York City to discuss the job-training procedures.

Says Segregation In National Guard Of Empire State

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., charges there is a shocking pattern of segregation in the New York National Guard and urges Gov. Rockefeller to eliminate it.

Ryan, of Manhattan, inserted into the Congressional Record Monday a letter from Murray Gross, national chairman of the American Veterans Committee.

Gross contended that racial statistics made New York's guard sound like that of a southern state.

Gross said no Negroes serve in any military police or ordnance units in the state, only two Negroes are among the 393 enlisted men in medical units and only one is among the 887 enlisted men in signal units.

A GE spokesman said the emergency meeting was a preliminary step to arbitration of the dispute.

About 1,500 union members on the first shift in the department involved voted unanimously Monday to support a strike if the union ordered it. Jandreau said they would be at their jobs as usual today.

The dispute centered on the union's protests over the company's use of a salaried employee to train two workers. The union said union members should provide the training.

A company spokesman said the union was trying "to place new restrictions on the manner in which we meet our training requirements."

The agreement came on the eve of a ceremony for presentation of a U.S. Commerce Department "E" award to the company. The award honors GE for its role in developing world markets.

Speakers at the ceremony included Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., U.S. undersecretary of commerce, and Gerald L. Philippe, president of GE.

Post Auxiliary Of VFW Plans to Install Officers

Newly elected officers of Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary will be installed in a combined ceremony Sunday at VFW Post Home, Livingston Street, starting at 2:30 p. m.

Mrs. Mary Wood, founder of the Auxiliary, will act as installing officer for the Auxiliary, with John Utter serving as installing officer for the men. A supper will follow the ceremonies.

Incoming president will be Miss Hannah Lewis and the new commander will be Bernard Nolan.

During last week's meeting, Miss Lewis reported that on Loyalty Day over 1,000 ice creams had been distributed following the parade.

The Auxiliary voted to enter a float in the July 4th Parade. The VFW Auxiliary color guard will also appear.

Members were reminded of the traditional Memorial Day observances to take place the end of the month. The day's services start with attendance at the Gold Star Mothers Mass in Glasco at 8 a. m., followed by memorial services at the monument in front of VFW Hall, services at the Legion monument, marching in the parade, and concluding with services at the Maine monument in Malden. Chaplain Mrs. Ethel Jehle will place Auxiliary flags on the graves of the departed members before May 30.

The Gold Star Mothers received a flower remembrance from the Auxiliary for Mother's Day.

Plans are completed for the antique show and sale slated for May 24 and 25, according to the chairman, Mrs. Katherine Helm. The response has been enthusiastic stated Mrs. Helm, with 11 dealers to exhibit their specialties on the two days from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Mrs. Ruth Prendergast will be in charge of the all day hot meal and snack refreshments. All profits derived will be used as a grant to the VFW National Cancer Fund and in the Auxiliary's relief fund.

It was announced by the president, Mrs. Marie Sheehan, that the Saugerties Auxiliary and Post ranked 10th in the statewide community service scrap book competition among the 583 entries. She congratulated Mrs. Ethel Jehle for her fine work in comprising the book.

Auxiliary members present at the special session of Hudson Valley County Council meeting earlier in the month who were elected to office include: Mrs. Marie Parks, chaplain; Mrs. Helen Arold, guard; Mrs. Wood, patriotic instructor; and Miss Lewis, flag bearer.

The next meeting is slated for June 13.

Glascio Firemen Schedule Circus Monday, June 10

The "Big Top" will rise over Glasco Little League Field Monday, June 10 when the circus will come to town through the courtesy of Glasco Fire Company.

Arrangements were discussed at a special meeting of the volunteers Monday night at Glasco Fire Hall. Further details will be announced, according to Fire Chief Charles Cafaldo.

Chief Cafaldo said tickets for the firemen who did not attend last night's meeting may be picked up at Ebel's Market, opposite the firehouse.

Chief Cafaldo also reported that the volunteers responded to another call at the Hudson Valley Lightweight Aggregate property at 2 p. m. Monday, where the dump was on fire.

Columbiettes New Officers Named; Degree Conferred

Saugerties Council Columbiettes 4536 elected new officers and conferred the First Degree on two new members at its recent meeting held at Saugerties Knights of Columbus Hall, Barclay Heights.

The First Degree was conferred on Margaret Wade and Lillian Ryan.

Mrs. Jeanette Curry was elected president, succeeding Mrs. Lillian Conte, who served during the past year.

Others elected were Elsie Wey, vice president; Lucille Nau, recording secretary; Mary Pietkiewicz, corresponding secretary; Lorraine Wagner, financial secretary; Mary Campochiaro, treasurer; Eva Sweeney, inner guard; Trudy Musillo, outer guard, and Helen Kramer, three-year trustee.

Hudson Valley Chapter delegates include Mrs. Curry, Mrs. Conte, Mrs. Kramer, Betty Lynch and Gerry Ruddy.

Hudson Valley alternates are Laura Buono, Mrs. Nau, Mary Riccio, Mrs. Campochiaro, and Mrs. Wey.

State delegates to 1964 convention include Mrs. Curry and Mrs. Conte; alternates are Mrs. Kramer and Mrs. Lynch.

More than 70 members attended. Guests were the Rev. Archibald Damm, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Glasco, new chaplain of the local council; Grand Knight Richard Buono of Saugerties Knights of Columbus; Albert Conte, district deputy and Loretta Ahl, Columbiette state treasurer, and Edward Curry, local council coordinator.

Mr. Ahl reporting the State Blind Project said to date $5,000 has been collected. She urged the local group to work hard and give generously to the project. She said three typewriters have been purchased and four more are on order. A display will be shown at the state convention in Syracuse in June.

Following the meeting Eva Sweeney conducted a jewelry party.

The following coming events were announced:

Special Social Studies Class Completes Course

A special honor class in social studies completed its 15-lesson course last week in a pilot project based on the Northeastern State Youth Citizenship Project sponsored by the commissioners of education of the Northeastern States.

The state education department selected Saugerties High School as one of the pilot schools to experiment with this initial unit.

The initial unit was oriented to develop an understanding of the major 20th Century ideologies and their role in world affairs. The discussion group centered its attention on the origin, philosophy and historic function of Democracy, Facism, Authoritarianism and Communism.

Chosen to participate were Gail Adams, Jeffrey Adels, Annette Barone, Catherine Maines, Edward Pavlinik, Donald Reed, Mary Rosner, Wesley Snyder and Kenneth Wood.

Mrs. Harold Behr was the discussion leader.

Golden Age Club Plans Outdoor Picnic Meetings

A Series of outdoor summer picnic meeting was discussed and a demonstration on ceramics was shown at the recent meeting of Saugerties Golden Age Club held at VFW Hall.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Siobodan of Barclay Heights June 13 at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Isabel DeCelle of Market Street brought materials and gave instructions on ceramics.

Refreshments were served and oldtime songs were sung with Otto Schmilax at the piano. New members are always welcome according to Mrs. Eva Watts, publicity chairman.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

FORD GALAXIE 500 XL SPORTS HARDTOP

IF YOU KNEW WHAT TINY LUND KNOWS ABOUT FORD DURABILITY...YOU'D BE OUT ENJOYING A '63 FORD

Ask Tiny Lund about Ford durability: He'll tell you how it helped him win America's toughest stock-car competition, the Daytona 500. Lund placed first in a Ford, with four other Fords right behind him for an unprecedented sweep of the first five places. Only the Fords were tough enough to stand the pace.

Greater durability is the reason Ford is able to offer a total-car warranty. Only a true total-performance car could offer as complete a warranty as this—with no strings attached:

"Ford Motor Company warrants to its dealers, and its dealers, in turn, warrant to owners as follows: That for 24 months or for 24,000 miles*, whichever comes first, free replacement, including related labor, will be made by dealers of any part with a defect in workmanship or materials. Tires are not covered by the warranty; appropriate adjustments will be made by the tire companies. Owners will remain responsible for normal maintenance services, routine replacement of parts, such as filters, spark plugs, ignition points, wiper blades, brake or clutch linings, and normal deterioration of soft trim and appearance items."

You can't put a long-term warranty like ours on a short-term car. The '63 Fords have a better warranty because they're built better than any Fords in history. You see evidence of this extra toughness in Ford's outstanding competitive wins this year.

'63 Fords won the grueling Daytona, Riverside, and Atlanta 500's, and the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only cars with total performance could roll up so many big wins.

Before you buy any new car, test-drive the solid, silent Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember: If it's built by Ford, it's built for performance...total performance.

Colin Kelly 3rd To Marry After Point Graduation
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Cadet Colin Kelly 3rd, whose father died heroically during an air battle a few days after Pearl Harbor, will take a bride after his graduation next month from the U.S. Military Academy.
Young Kelly, 23, was only an infant when his father, also a West Pointer, died a hero's death in 1941 which brought him posthumously the Medal of Honor.
Colin, known as "Corky," graduates June 5. On June 22 he will marry Mary Margaret Cooper of Goshen.
A retiring young man, Colin has persistently stayed out of the spotlight. In verifying the report of Kelly's coming marriage, an academy spokesman said Monday that Kelly expressed the wish to have no publicity on it at all.
It was three days after Pearl Harbor, which much of the U.S. Pacific fleet under water, that pilot Colin Kelly Jr., during a bombing raid on the heavy cruiser Ashigara, ordered the six-man crew of his riddled B17 to bail out and went down with his plane.
Immediately following Kelly's heroic sacrifice, the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote a letter to "the President of the United States in 1956," asking the future President to consider for appointment to West Point "a young American youth of goodly heritage—Colin Kelly 3rd."
But young Colin chose to take a competitive examination to qualify for the "Point," and he passed the test.

Kerhonkson Man Named to College

Officials at Ulster County Community College today announced the appointment of Frederic N. Misner to the faculty of Ulster County Community College. Misner is currently on the faculty at the State University of New York in Albany, and prior to his assignment there taught for three years in Nyack High School in Nyack, New York.
Misner will have the rank of assistant professor and will teach mathematics at the new Community College. His academic preparation has included study at Union College, at Columbia College, at Adelphi College, at Harvard, and at Montclair Teachers College. He has participated in several National Science Foundation Summer Institutes, and received his Master's Degree from Harvard University.
Professor Misner's family reside in Kerhonkson, and he has a sister who is an instructor in biology at Ellenville High School. He currently resides at 495 State Street in Albany, and will assume his new duties at Ulster County Community College on September 1st.

Can't Force Payment Of Dues Used for Political Purposes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that a railroad worker cannot be forced to pay that portion of his union dues which might be used for political purposes.

Justice Brennan announced the court's ruling in a complex decision in litigation that has been going on for 10 years and which, he said, has not yet run its course.

Justice Harlan wrote a separate decision dissenting in part and concurring in part with the ruling. Justice Goldberg disqualified himself.

The ruling affected specifically about 30 North Carolina employees of the Southern Railway. They have contended it would be illegal to force them to pay dues to unions when they opposed any use of such dues money by unions for political purposes.

Brennan said the case had to go back to the North Carolina Supreme Court where two determinations would have to be made. First, Brennan said, the state court must find what expenditures disclosed by the records are political. Then, he went on, a determination must be made of what percentage of total union spending is for political purposes.

Brennan said unions should be left free to spend parts of dues money collected from non-dissenters to support union political activities.

Brennan said the court thought it appropriate to suggest also that the lower court order that objectors, who proved their right to relief be given a refund of dues in the same proportion that union political expenditures bear to total union expenditures.

Harlan in dissenting in part described the majority's views as "an expansive thrust which can hardly fail to increase the volume of this sort of litigation in the future."

New Director Named

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Allan A. Kuusisto, dean of the University of New Hampshire graduate school, is the new director of the High Education Division of the New York State Education Department.

The appointment was announced Sunday by Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. The post pays $18,860 a year.

Kuusisto, who is 42, has been on the faculty at New Hampshire since 1948.

Awards Are Given To 2 Writers for Science Reporting

NEW YORK (AP)—Earl Ubell, science writer for the New York Herald Tribune, and Nora Applegate of the White Plains Reporter-Dispatch Monday won the fourth annual Empire State Awards for excellence in medical reporting.

The Syracuse Herald-Journal won a special public-service award for its reporting of mass polio immunizations in the area it covers.

The awards are sponsored by the Medical Society of the State of New York and the Annual Health Conference Inc., in behalf of the State Health Department. Ubell and Mrs. Applegate receive $500 prizes.

In previous years, only one winner was chosen. This year, however, awards were established for writers on newspapers of more than 50,000 circulation and those on newspapers with circulation of less than 50,000.

Walter Froehlich of the Buffalo Courier Express and Philip Santora of the New York Daily News received honorable mention for their work for larger papers. In the smaller-paper class, honorable mention went to Walter Renshaw of the Auburn Citizen-Advertiser.

Ubell was nominated for a series of stories that explored the relationship between diet and heart disease.

Mrs. Applegate was nominated for articles on dental health and on medical research in Westchester County.

In addition to the articles for which the writers were nominated, the judges also considered the general medical and health stories written by the nominees during 1962.

Judgments were based on accuracy, initiative and readability.

The judges were Prof. Hillier Kriegerbaum, chairman of the journalism department at New York University; Charles J. Weiner, executive editor of the Auburn Citizen-Advertiser, representing the State Society of Newspaper Editors; Dr. Henry I. Fineberg, executive vice president of the Medical Society; Dr. Granville W. Larmore, first deputy commissioner of the State Health Department; and Dr. James J. Quinn, assistant secretary of the Annual Health Conference.

Police Continue Probe In Death of Actor's Wife

WARRENSBURG, N.Y. (AP)—State Police continued an investigation today into the death of Nina Caiserman Kellin, wife of movie and television actor Mike Kellin, whose body was found Saturday about five miles north of this Adirondack Mountain village.

The body was found about a quarter-mile from the spot where Mrs. Kellin's automobile was discovered a week ago, parked behind a group of cottages off Route 28. The keys were in the car.

Troopers said they were looking into the possibility of suicide. She had been missing since May 2, and police said the last that was heard of her was a letter to a friend in New York City in which she intimated she planned to take her life.

A coroner's verdict was withheld, pending an examination at the State Police Laboratory in Albany.

Impressive Array Of Spectators Gather for Flight

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Across the world—and even above it—an impressive array of spectators gathered to watch astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. go spinning 22 times around the earth.

In addition to millions of people tuned in on television and radio, America's most ambitious space project thus far required the services of more than 19,000 professional bird watchers spotted at key places around the globe. Most of them were deployed on ships and planes in likely recovery areas in case the 36-year-old astronaut was required by circumstances to end his 34-hour trip ahead of schedule.

Europe hoped to get an unprecedented peek at the Air Force major in his Faith 7 capsule via Telstar 2 and a special camera in the cockpit. Another eye peering down from the sky is the weather satellite Tyros, which makes six passes a day over the Atlantic Ocean during the daylight hours of his mission, one over the Pacific area crossed by his flight and a quick pass over the sea or Arabia.

Among the amateur space fans perhaps none is so rabid in its enthusiasm as the group of science-minded youngsters from junior and senior high schools in the Cape Canaveral area who set up an elaborate tracking station on a motel roof.

As always on shot day, the motel signs on Cocoa Beach, the nearest community to the cape, have blossomed with messages of good luck and bon voyage.

"Our prayers and hopes go with Gordon Cooper," says a typical marquee.

The number of campers and people living in house trailers down on the beach has diminished considerably from the tens of thousands who came to watch Alan B. Shepard Jr.'s sub-orbital flight two years ago. Among the tourists gathered for this shot, however, are carloads from at least 30 states, including Alaska.

County Officers Official Organ Features Ulster

Today Ulster County "stands on the threshold of its greatest period of development and change," according to a six-page article in the April issue of "County Government," the official magazine of the County Officers Association of the State.

The author of the article, which is one in a series which has been published on counties of the state, is John E. "Jack" Marquardt, deputy clerk of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, and a former radio commentator.

Has 6 Pictures

The story of Ulster County is illustrated with six pictures depicting typical scenes in the county. The article is headed by a large aerial picture of the New York Thruway at Kingston, showing in the background the majestic Catskill Mountains. Other illustrations are of the "Peter Stuyvesant" Hudson River Day Line boat, the Senate House, an aerial view of the IBM plant in the Town of Ulster, a picture of the Woodstock golf course with the Overlook Mountain in the background and a "shot" of the Esopus creek near Phoenicia, a fisherman's paradise.

Marquardt relates the early history of the county and refers to some of the pioneer industries such as the bluestone industry, brickmaking, shipbuilding and other trades which were among the early industries as well as the later ones which have been brought to the area. He makes reference to the days of the Delaware & Hudson Canal and its transportation of coal from the Pennsylvania coal fields.

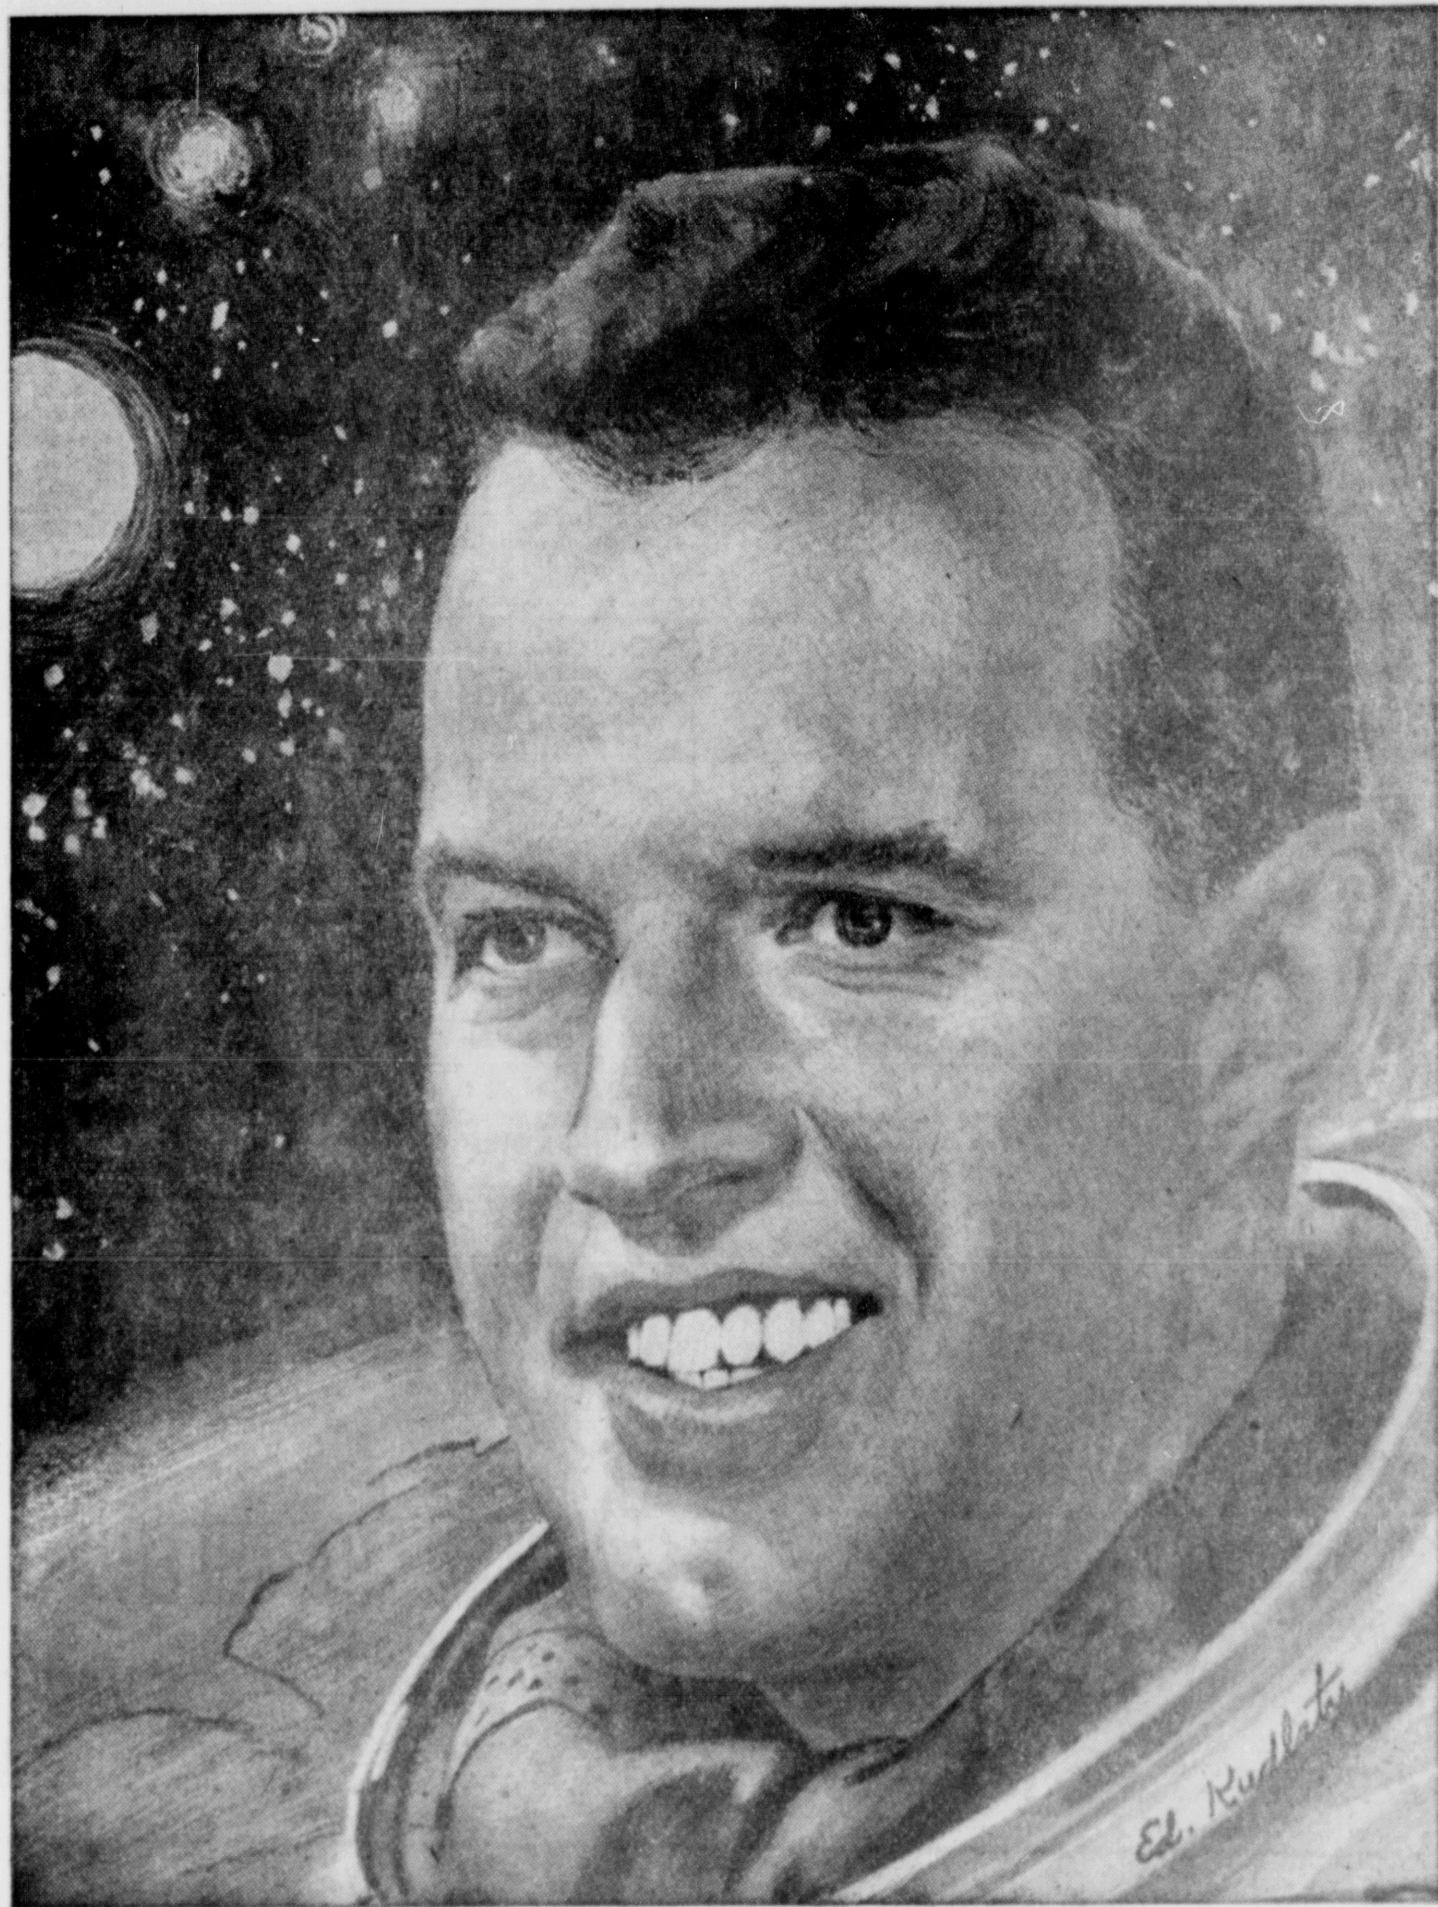

In noting the "change of times" in Ulster County, the author, notes that there are now more than 200 manufacturing plants in the county which produce a wide variety of products. There are some 2,000 retail establishments and the vacation area is served by more than 300 hotels, motels and boarding houses where visitors may enjoy the county's scenic splendor both winter and summer.

Transportation facilities make the area a hub of transportation, both by highway and water, as well as rail.

Cite Business Volume

The old stone houses, historical background and its part in building the state and nation are referred to in the article. In summary, Marquardt states that retail trade in the county is over $150 million in business annually; the tourist trade brings in about $15 million annually and the farming industry grosses about $100 million annually.

Education and cultural facilities are also outlined and in conclusion the author states that the county is again at a new crossroads where the word "growth" sums up the picture and all that remains for the county is to "take the right road."

Buck Rogers Favorite of Cooper Who Wondered About Space as Boy

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

—As a boy, Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. read Buck Rogers in the funny papers and wondered whether man would fly into space before the 25th century.

Today he's amazed at the swiftness of events which have sent astronauts into space in his lifetime—and his participation as one of the pioneers of this great effort. If anyone seemed destined for space flight, it was Cooper. He has been flying as long as he can remember.

His father, an Air Force colonel, was a close friend of such aviation greats as Wiley Post and Amelia Earhart, and Gordon used to listen intrigued to their flying conversations. The elder Cooper took his son aloft almost before he could walk.

Handled Controls at 6

"Gordo"—as his fellow astronauts call him—recalls first handling the controls of a plane when he was 6 and flying his first solo at 16.

Cooper's mother says her son always was interested in airplanes.

"Gordon made a lot of model planes," she reported recently at her Carbondale, Colo., home. "Later, when he was a senior in high school at Shawnee, Okla., he had a good friend who ran an airport. Gordon worked there to pay for flying instruction. He soloed then, while his father was serving with the Air Force in the Pacific."

The senior Cooper died of cancer in 1960.

Cooper, a Methodist, was born March 6, 1927, in Shawnee. After graduation from high school in 1945, he entered the Marine Corps and spent some time at the Naval Academy Preparatory School. After his discharge in 1946 he attended the University of Hawaii for three years.

Mrs. Cooper Flies Too

At the university, he met and married the former Trudy Olson of Seattle, Wash. Under Cooper's instruction, Trudy soon had a pilot's license. The couple explored the Hawaiian islands in a Piper Cub. They took their first baby for a plane ride soon after she was born.

The Coopers now have two daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13. They live in Houston, Tex., site of the manned spacecraft center.

While at the University of Hawaii, Cooper received an Army commission, which he transferred to the Air Force. In 1949, he was called by that service for extended flight duty. After training he was assigned to the 86th fighter-bomber group in Munich, Germany, where he piloted F84s and F86s for four years.

Earns Degree

He later attended the Air Force Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, and earned a bachelor's degree in aeronautical engineering in 1956.

He then was assigned to the Air Force experimental flight test school, Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and helped design and test experimental fighter aircraft.

Cooper, now an Air Force major, has logged more than 2,600 hours flying time, 1,600 in jets.

Flight Director Probably Will Not Sleep a Wink

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Plans for L. Gordon Cooper Jr.'s space effort called for nearly everybody involved, including the astronaut, to grab a little shut-eye during the 34-hour adventure. But some are betting Christopher Columbus Kraft Jr. won't sleep a wink.

As Project Mercury flight director, Chris Kraft has seen every previous American astronaut safely off the launching pad and safely back to earth without leaving his key post in the control center.

For the Cooper shot, however, a second team headed by Kraft's first assistant, John D. Hodge, was assigned to help direct in-flight operations. The teams planned to work in five-orbit shifts.

Kraft, 39, is one of the original members of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's manned spacecraft team. He joined the science staff of Langley Research Center's flight research division in 1945, a year after graduating from Virginia Polytechnic Institute as an aeronautical engineer. When the space task group was formed in 1958 he was one of the first to sign up.

Kraft is responsible for directing every space flight from the moment of lift-off to the moment of impact. He also is responsible for coordinating thousands of details and persons involved in Project Mercury—the tracking network, recovery forces and flight control divisions.

Stake Is About $15 Billion Now

Hundreds of Firms, Many Sectors Will Gain or Lose in Space Race

By SAM DAWSON
Ap Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of companies and dozens of American communities have a financial stake in the ventures into space. The stake is about $15 billion now and is growing rapidly.

Often the individual fortunes and prospects of corporations and cities can change overnight. The space industry has perhaps the fastest rate of obsolescence.

What man will discover out there can't be foretold with certainty. Nor can the new demands the nation will make upon industry to meet the challenge of still more novel space programs which seem likely to spring from some of the $7 billion which the government is pouring this year into military research.

Can Do Good, or Harm

plants. A sudden cancellation of government orders — and some have been big ones—can wreck the prospects at one blow.

One big changeover for the industry came when the Defense Department's eyes turned from aircraft to missiles. Orders for new planes dropped from 9,000 a year to around 2,000. But corporations that could make missiles got new fat orders and hundreds of companies supplying parts bloomed.

The changeover was felt in other ways. Making planes calls for much larger plants and the use of much more raw materials than missiles. The numbers and skills of workers are far different, too. Many communities felt the change sharply and the whole economy to some extent.

Another Change Apparent

Now there's apparently another change. Orders for new missiles are beginning to level off. The new emphasis is on fewer but more expensive units. Changing needs are part of the reason the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's spending has gone up from $339 million in 1959 to a request for $5.7 billion in the coming year.

Today's emphasis on building rockets that can boost man toward the moon and beyond may shift to contracts for the actual spacecraft.

The stock market has watched all this with some confusion at first and considerable caution of late. A big new contract will give a company's stock a boost—and a cancellation will topple it.

The big questions for investors still will be: Just which company will or can make the particular device that so volatile an endeavor as conquering space—and doing it first—will demand, and which will see its expensively developed product dubbed obsolete.

The first official "whip" in congress was Republican Rep. James E. Watson of Indiana in 1899. Rep. James H. Lewis became the Democrat's first whip in 1913.

Nerve Transplant Success Is Outgrowth of Research

The first successful transplantation of nerve sections from one person to another was recently announced by scientists at the Institute for the Crippled and Disabled in New York City. This research program was financed in part by financial contributions from Ulster County's Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center, 400 Broadway, Kingston.

The United Cerebral Palsy Research and Educational Foundation, with which the local unit is affiliated, is one of three organizations which supports the scientists' work at the Institute for the Crippled and Disabled. From 1953 through 1964, the UCPA Research and Educational Foundation has granted and allocated over $100,000 to Dr. Campbell for his project which resulted in the successful transplantation. The title of his research program is "A Study of the Regenerative Potential of Neural Tissue Directed at Improving Peripheral Nerve Palsy and Paraplegia."

According to the report, the grafts have been successful in patients whose nerve function had been destroyed by injury for as long as three years. While not yet successful in restoring function to damaged parts of the spinal cord, the technique was said to herald the establishment of nerve banks throughout the country for repair of severed nerves in the peripheral nervous system.

Dr. Campbell, who is associate professor of neurology at the New York University Medical Center, conducted research with Dr. C. Andrew L. Bassett, associate professor of orthopedic surgery at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.

All recorded attempts to transplant large nerves between unrelated individuals have failed up to now, it was explained, because grafts were rejected as foreign matter by the patient's immunological defenses.

Dr. Campbell and Dr. Bassett overcame this obstacle by destroying the immunological incompatibility between the graft and the patient's body.

Plastic Sleeve Aids Graft
This was done by freezing the nerve grafts and exposing them to 2,000,000 units of radiation. In addition, the grafts were sheathed in porous plastic sleeves, thus protecting them from destruction by the body's scavenger cells and from invasion by scar tissue.

The sleeve also served another function. Although the nerve graft was dead and nonfunctional, it acted as an inert superstructure on which the two ends of the broken living nerve could orient and unite. The sheath permitted body fluids to bathe the graft section and nourish supporting cells as this was taking place.

The plastic sheaths are removed from the graft after two to three months. Persons with crushing injuries to hands, arms and legs are good candidates for this treatment. Work will continue to perfect ways of making nerve grafts permanently storable by freeze-drying them. Efforts will also be continued to achieve restoration of function in the central nervous system—which consists of cells in the spinal cord.

Parts of the funds which the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Agency will raise during its annual campaign beginning May 27 will be allocated to this research as part of its affiliate support to the national Cerebral Palsy Agency.

Publicity Scheme Says Keating of Stratton Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., rejects as a "quest for publicity" the challenge of Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., for a nationwide radio and television debate on the Cuban situation.

Stratton attacked Monday a contention by Keating on a nationwide television interview Sunday that none of Keating's statements on Cuba had been proved wrong. Stratton asked the National Broadcasting Co. for time to reply to Keating, in the senator's presence if possible.

Keating has been a frequent critic of President Kennedy's Cuban policies.

In a telegram to NBC President Robert Kinner, Stratton said: "I believe it is seriously harmful to the public interest and the defense of the nation if the falsity of this (Keating's) claim is not publicly demonstrated over your facilities with the same extensive kind of coverage as was given to the original claim."

In a letter to Stratton, Keating said the grave problems arising from creation of a Russian military base on Cuba were too serious to be the subject of a "partisan political debate."

"I've never found it appropriate or necessary in my years of service in Congress to engage in personalities or to deal with important international issues in a political manner and don't intend to deviate from that record now," Keating told the Senate committee.

Stratton said he had demonstrated in the past that Keating was wrong in saying his facts on Cuba had never been contradicted.

Republicans Skip Inviting Two Big Leaders to Dine

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — State Republican Chairman Fred A. Young was among the ranks of the uninvited to tonight's dinner of the Erie County GOP Committee, whose chairman has been feuding with the party's state leaders for months over patronage distribution and other matters.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, the guest of honor at the group's dinner in 1962 but an open adversary of County

GOP Chairman Robert W. Grimm since January, had not accepted an invitation. Informed sources said Mahoney would not attend.

Young, on a surprise visit to Buffalo Monday to handle some personal business and do "a little politicking," said he had not received an invitation to the $100-a-plate dinner. Grimm's aides said there were no plans to invite Young.

They said they were aware Young was in the city.

The Netherlands' Groningen natural gas field holds at least 14 trillion cubic feet of natural gas—enough to supply the nation's entire power needs for five years.

Local Delegates To Attend Scout Regional Meeting

Local Girl Scout executives, Mrs. David Ennis, president and Mrs. Kenneth E. Martin, executive director of the Ulster County Council will be attending the Region II Presidents meeting May 14 through 16.

The three-day event which will include the biannual meeting of the Region II committee will be held at The Inn, Buck Hill Falls, Pa.

The members will represent over 500,000 girl and adult members in Region II and councils in New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. This meeting will be held to discuss current trends in Girl Scouting and methods of financing council needs in the Region.

A feature will be an up-to-date report on the program change scheduled for the fall of this year. At that time the Girl Scout Organization will enter a new era in the history of Scouting. Four age levels will be introduced to include Brownies (7-8) Junior (9-10-11) Cadettes (12-13-14) Seniors (15-16-17). Mrs. John Hesselbein of Johnstown, Pa., a member of the national board of directors and chairman of the program committee will be the guest speaker for this part of the program. Other guests will include Miss Alyce Nelson, coordinator field services, and Waldo Shaver, director of finance services, for the national organization.

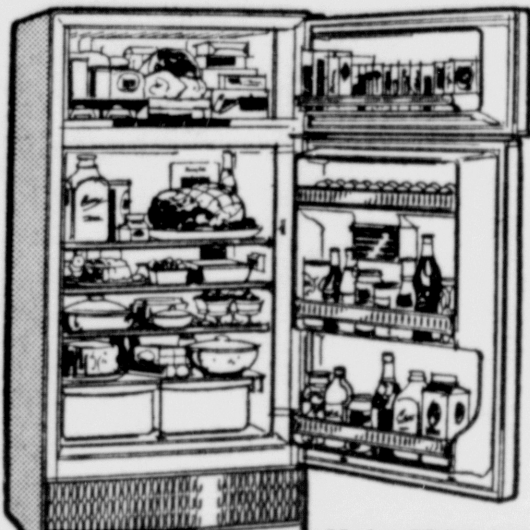

Prior to the opening session, Mrs. Louis P. Gratz, Region II chairman and members of the national staff will conduct an orientation session for newly elected Girl Scout council presidents. The Region II committee members will be hostesses for the meeting.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—When those vital Nielsen ratings, listing television's top ten programs, come out every two weeks, one is likely to look at the estimates of astronomical numbers of persons in the audience and imagine millions of people glued rapturously to their chairs by the antics of, say, "The Beverly Hillbillies."

The other night, I paid some attention to the four people in my living room, all watching—if that's the word—a popular variety show. The star came on and sang an opening song, but about halfway through one member of the audience said, loudly: "I understand he's very happily married—"

This failed to elicit much of a conversation. As the next number—a stand-up comedy routine—started, another viewer gave a sharp exclamation, jumped up and disappeared into another room. She returned in the middle of a joke with a stamped, addressed envelope and a long explanation about how important it was to get it mailed. We all missed the tagline. We just about finished the talk about the letter when it was time for the commercial.

At this point the fourth member of the viewing team, departed for the kitchen to make a glass of iced coffee which resulted in a three-party search for a missing saccharine bottle.

So it went for a solid hour. All told, I don't believe there were 10 consecutive minutes of quiet, uninterrupted viewing during the 60 minutes.

Bing Crosby's No. 1 boy, Gary, has been signed to play Bill Dana's buddy and confidante in next season's NBC comedy series. Dana will play his familiar role of Jose Jimenez, who first appeared on the old Steve Allen show and then went on to the Danny Thomas series.

Lucille Ball and Vivian Vance are making some of next season's "Lucy Shows" during May and June—and it looks as if Dick Martin of the comedy team of Rowan and Martin will no longer play Lucy's handy bachelor neighbor, Harry, the airlines pilot.

The first show already filmed has Lucy going duck hunting with "a new boy friend," played by Keith Andes—who, it may be remembered, was Lucy's leading man in her Broadway production, "Wild Cat."

Sid Caesar's chief writer for his biweekly comedy series next season will be Goodman Ace, one of the best-known and most successful in television. Ace has headed Perry Como's writing staff for several seasons—at a salary generally considered to be magnificent.

Recommended tonight: "As Caesar Sees It," ABC, 10:30-11 (EDT)—another in Sid Caesar's series of half-hour comedy specials.

May Balk on Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, which last week voted pay raises of more than $1 billion a year for military personnel, may balk this week at helping foot the bill.

A bill to raise the national debt ceiling has top billing on this week's congressional docket. Without its enactment, administration leaders claim, the Treasury may have difficulty meeting its obligations. Among the obligations are government payrolls.

The debt limit measure comes before the House Wednesday, having been postponed a full week because of leadership fears that there weren't enough votes to pass it last week.

Here is a hand from the finals of the Eastern Championships of 1932 that shows them at their best.

After South opened with a pre-emptive bid of four spades Hal chose to double. Of course, his double was primarily for penalties but Karn had other ideas. With two five card suits and no spades Karn decided game or slam was likely and took out to five clubs. He bid his lower suit so as to leave both other suits for Sims in case he did not have clubs.

South passed and Sims decided that he could make six clubs but that if he bid it directly the opponents would defend so Sims passed.

North could not tell that he was up against dynamite and went to five spades. Karn passed, but Sims went to the club slam and after North passed South saved at six spades. If North could not double six clubs South saw no way to beat it.

Sims passed this bid. Karn could be depended on to act and Karn went to seven clubs. South passed this around to North who

Town of Ulster Library Notes Gifts Received

Town of Ulster Library Association board of directors today acknowledged receipt of a check in the amount of $110.59 from Mrs. Rose Peters Krom of Albany Avenue Extension.

Mrs. Krom said the fund was the proceeds of a dance held in 1943 by the Civilian Defense Nurses Aides. The money was banked for future needs. Since that time the money has earned a modest amount of interest and Mrs. Krom said the library could best benefit from the money. She gave it in memory of those who have since departed. It will be used to buy non-fiction books.

The board gratefully acknowledged the receipt of a copy of "The Vanishing Village," the story of Woodstock written by Will Rose, and presented as a gift to the library by Harry duBois Frey, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Freeman Publishing Co.

A book sale is being planned to be held at the former Nichol's Store on Albany Avenue Extension, across from Robert Hall, the week of May 20. Residents who have books to donate to the library for it to use or sell should leave them in the garage at the rear of the Michael Maxson residence behind Ulster firehouse.

The need for a paid part-time librarian has arisen. She will be assisted by volunteer librarians and workers who have manned the library in the past. Applications will be considered by a committee and all those interested in this position should make application by letter to the Town of Ulster Library Association, Box 336, Lake Katrine, by May 24.

Definite summer hours for the library have not been ascertained as yet but Saturday mornings and weekday hours that do not conflict with the town swim-recreation program will be announced. No evening hours are contemplated because of lack of a school custodian on duty during the summer months.

MR. AND MRS. CONRAD F. MARTIN

Miss Angela D. Misasi, Conrad F. Martin Exchange Vows at St. Joseph's in Glasco

Miss Angela Dorothy Misasi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Misasi of Glasco and Conrad Francis Martin, son of Mrs. Mary Martin of 472 Main Street, Saugerties, exchanged nuptial vows at St. Joseph's Church, Glasco, 2 p. m. Sunday, April 28.

The Rev. Archibald Damm, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Patrick Buonfiglio was organist and Theresa Sasso, soloist.

Escorted in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported silk peau de soie. Styled in a sheath effect the gown featured appliques of lace and pearls on the bodice and chapel length train. Her headpiece of pearls secured a six tier silk illusion veil and she carried a cascade of Calla lilies.

Mrs. Maryanne Macarille of Saugerties was honor attendant for her cousin. She wore a sheath gown of blossom pink chiffon over taffeta with full length overskirt. A matching petal cap with a fly away veil and a cascade arrangement of pink carnations completed her costume.

Francis P. Florio of Saugerties, a cousin of the bride, was best man. Danny Malitz of Beacon, nephew of the bridegroom and Frank Carpinio of

Aiello's Restaurant was the setting for the reception which followed the ceremony. Approximately 120 guests attended.

For a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, the bride chose navy silk traveling ensemble with navy and white accessories and a violet corsage. Upon their return the couple will make their home at York Street, Glasco.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin are both graduates of Saugerties High School. Mr. Martin attended RIT in Rochester and is a veteran of four years service with the U. S. Navy. He is a photographer.

SHAKING MOPS OUT WINDOWS

Q: Please print something in your column against the practice some women have of shaking their dust mops out of their windows. I don't know whether they are unthinking or just don't care about any one but themselves. It is very annoying, after having spent the morning washing windows and sills, to have a neighbor shake her dirty mop out of the window and have all the dust and dirt blow right back again. This is much worse in the summer when the windows are open. Some women even shake their dirty mops out of the window when their neighbors have wet clothes on the line. I run the vacuum cleaner over my mop to get the dust out of it and I am sure others could do the same, or if this is too much trouble, they can at least go to the far end of the yard and shake their mops. Your comments will be appreciated.

A: I most certainly agree with you. It is very lacking in thought and consideration of one's neighbors to shake a dust mop out of the window and I hope that by printing your letter those who have been guilty of this practice will, in the future, follow your example.

Carrying Golf Clubs

Q: When a man and woman play a round of golf and there is no caddy available, is he expected to carry her clubs for her or does she carry them herself?

A: She carries her clubs herself.

Gift From Friends of the Bridegroom

Q: A young man whom my husband and I know quite well is going to be married soon and we have been invited to both the wedding and reception. His bride-to-be is a stranger to us. Would it be proper, under the circumstances, to send the wedding present to him?

A: Correctly, your present should be sent to his bride-to-be even though you do not know her.

KHS ART STUDENTS—Kingston High School art students whose work is currently on display at the Artcraft Gallery, 694 Broadway, include, (l-r) Carla DeSantos, Route 4;

Lynn Demski, 85 Augusta Street; Robert Birkhead, River Road, Port Ewen; Linda Gleason, RD 1, and Jerry Totten, 617 Kierstead Avenue.

Art Work by KHS Students Displayed At Local Gallery

The work of approximately 60 students enrolled in the art program at Kingston High School is presented in the current exhibit at The Artcraft Gallery, 694 Broadway.

The gallery is open to the public, without charge, daily except Sunday. The current exhibit will remain through Saturday, May 18.

Included in the display is a wide variety of subject matter, media and interpretations.

There are many examples of advertising and costume design, and notable are several samples of graphic work actually processed for use by organizations of the community. Stress in the commercial courses is placed on the realistic demands of the professional field, providing students with a useful background of fundamentals in addition to a creative approach.

The paintings and drawings reflect a range of media: pastel, oils, temperas, watercolor, collage and mixed media. Subject matter equally diversified, as is interpretation. Abstract, non-objective, naturalistic and conventional forms of expression are represented, attesting to the philosophy that students should not be guided collectively but as individuals with varying interests and needs.

Mrs. Althea S. Odell is the art instructor at Kingston High School.

Presented here by Dick Weaver, the play also stars popular Jeffrey Lynn. Kingston will now have a schedule of Broadway hits with the opening of the new season in September. Plans are being made now to bring up an additional show, possibly Victor Borge, before the start of the official season. 'Mary, Mary' Is Complete Sell Out; Response Makes Kingston Regular Stop for Top Hits

By DOROTHY A. NAREL
Freeman Society Editor

In a telephone conversation this morning with producer Dick Weaver, the man responsible for bringing like Broadway theatre to the Kingston area, we learned that "Mary, Mary" is a complete sell out for tonight's performance and that a regular schedule of plays for the future has been assured.

The play will be staged tonight at 8:30 in the Community Theatre.

"The response to my first production has been so enthusiastic and wonderful, that I am now setting up a schedule for the new season which will begin in September," he said.

The most likely candidate for the first presentation will be "Sound of Music."

"I may even try to book a performance by Victor Borge before the fall season opens," Weaver told me. I assured him that a Borge performance in Kingston would prove to be another "Standing Room Only."

Weaver, a well known Broadway legit press agent, has taken time out this season to turn to the presentation of shows in a number of towns. He is currently presenting a full scale play series at Northampton, Mass., with the cooperation of Smith College and he says: "... the response in Kingston far surpassed that in Massachusetts."

Other shows to be brought here include "A Man for All Seasons," "Take Her, She's Mine," and "On the Way to the Forum."

It will be possible to subscribe to the full series and all detailed information about future reservations may be obtained at the box office tonight.

Students' Special

When "Mary, Mary" was first announced, it was anticipated that a matinee performance for students would be made possible. The cast had to cancel out the matinee because of travel time. But Weaver kept faith with the teenagers by having Jeffrey Lynn, Patricia Smith and John Lasell speak to a special assembly at Kingston High School yesterday afternoon.

Through the cooperation of Dan Allen, school principal, the stars of "Mary, Mary" spoke to the students and held an additional interview with members of the Drama Club after the assembly.

Moving out from New York some nine months ago, the cast began the first leg of a journey that was to see them climb mountains on the way to California, pass endless flatlands through Kansas and Missouri, and career wildly down slick roads in pelting storms. Many of the actors felt nothing ever seen on stage can match their bus-riding adventures.

Success Happens All of Sudden to James Franciscus

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Just as James Franciscus had grown accustomed to being an also-ran, he turned up a winner.

"I figured it would take me another six-seven years to get up to playing leads in pictures," says Jim, already a star of television. "Then suddenly it happened all at once."

The lean blond actor captured one of the prize roles of the season as Herman Wouk's hero in "Youngblood Hawke." For at least part of his break he can thank the recalcitrance of Warren Beatty, who was set for the role but dropped out of the picture just before shooting started. The story is that Warner Brothers balked at his terms, though maybe it was vice versa.

Anyway, it was a lucky happenstance for Jim Franciscus, whose golden future also includes a promising television series and his second child, due in a few months. He is married to Kitty Wellman, daughter of veteran director William Wellman.

He still finds it hard to believe that he is playing Hawke. "I'm usually the loser," he commented. "I lost out to Tab Hunter for 'The Pleasure of his Company.' I lost to Richard Beymer for 'Adventures of a Young Man.' I've lost on many pictures after coming close; the studio always decided on an actor under contract.

"I also missed out on 'PT 109,' though it was partly my doing. Raoul Walsh, who was then the director, wanted me to do an imitation of President Kennedy. I didn't want to. As it turned out, Cliff Robertson played the role but didn't imitate him."

Franciscus, 29, was a Clayton, Mo., boy who moved to New York when he was 11.

He did some dramatics in school, seasoned in summer stock and moved into television. Before he was 25, he was costarring with veteran John McIntyre in "Naked City" during its half-hour beginnings.

Friction with the producer caused him to drop out after a season, then he was tapped for another series, "The Investigators." It was a "total disaster" and expired after 13 weeks. He continued guesting on the major dramatic shows and did second leads in films such as the current "Miracle of the White Stallions." He'll go directly from "Hawke" to "Novak," a highly touted MGM series about a high school teacher, costarring Dean Jagger.

A traffic jam is a condition brought about by having more miles of cars than there are miles of highway.

Financial Problems Are Deep-Seated

Possibility of State Tax Hikes In Next Few Years Almost Certain

(Editor's Note: The eight-week budget revolt that flared during the 1963 legislative session was a symptom of deep-seated problems in New York State finances. Those problems continued after the budget revolt ended, and the answers are not yet in sight. The background of the state's current fiscal situation and prospects for the future are reviewed in a special series of three Associated Press reports, beginning today.)

By ROBERT T. GRAY
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The source of New York State's current fiscal problems is fundamental — the state has been spending money at a faster rate than it has been coming in.

Various stratagems by the state administration and Legislature have obscured and disguised this development but the possibility that tax increases will be needed in the next few years remains a very real one.

Despite official talk of 5 per cent cutbacks and stern new appraisals of state spending policies, history and current developments in government point to steadily increasing budgets.

A logical starting point for a review of the state's fiscal situation is Feb. 2, 1959, when Gov. Rockefeller declared in his first budget message that his goals included "re-establishment of sound fiscal policies, based on the principle of pay-as-you-go."

He called for an end to financing construction projects through borrowing, which, he said, could increase the price of a project by as much as 50 per cent because of interest charges.

Looked Like Answer
As the first step in moving on to a pay-as-you-go basis, the governor called for tax increases totaling $277 million a year.

As the governor saw it, the pay-as-you-go principle would guarantee fiscal stability in state government. This, in turn, would make New York attractive to industrialists as a state in which to expand or open plants. The resulting business and new jobs would provide revenue that would eliminate the need for further tax increases.

And, for a while, it seemed that was the way things were going to work out.

The money came rolling in so abundantly, in fact, that the administration could afford the gesture of a 10 per cent rebate on personal income taxes in 1961.

In this lush atmosphere, Rockefeller re-asserted his pay-as-you-go policy for state government and added to it a promise there would be no tax increases.

Strong on Spending Side
While the state's revenues increased rapidly under the twin pressures of higher tax rates and improving business, the pressures on the spending side were as strong, if not stronger.

Steps taken by the governor and Legislature not only increased some of the traditional spending pressures but added new ones, particularly in the field of education.

As a result, the state budget rose to $2.8 billion under Rockefeller from the $1.8 billion level at which it stood when he took office in 1959.

More than $500 million, about half the annual increase, has gone to education. Salaries of state employees have been raised by more than $100 million a year, and a combination of the raises and a growing state payroll has sent total wages up $200 million a year, to more than $600 million for salaries alone.

Construction expenditures — for highways, parkways, state buildings and institutions — are estimated at $410 million for the current fiscal year, compared with $240 million five years ago.

Trouble Signs Appear
The first signs of money trouble cropped up last year.

When the 1962-63 budget was drawn, it became apparent that revenues would fall $140 million below spending plans.

The gap was filled by advancing payment dates of $100 million in various business taxes to make them payable within the 1962-63 fiscal year.

Another $40 million was realized

$233,750 Loan Is Given Upstate Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Area Redevelopment Administration has approved a $233,750 loan to help the General Products Corp., Union Springs, N.Y., expand its production and create 75 new jobs. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., was advised Monday.

The firm manufactures ignition parts and molded plastic products for automobiles and aircraft.

The federal loan will be repayable over 25 years at a 4 per cent interest.

In addition, the New York Job Development Authority will loan the firm $127,500, the Industrial Development Foundation at Auburn will provide $42,500 and the firm itself will supply $21,250 in equity.

The new building will be constructed on land already owned by General Products.

KHS Scores Five Runs in 8th to Beat Saugerties, 7-2

ALL ALONE—Brad Welton of Saugerties High is well ahead of the field as he crosses the finish line to give the Sawyers a first place in the Medley Relay in Saturday's running of the New Palz Relays. The Sawyers set a school record and missed the meet mark by a little more than a second. (Freeman photo).

Palmer Admits He's Tired Man; Plans Respite From Golf Tour

LATROBE, Pa. (AP)—Weary, ailing Arnold Palmer, his position as golf's premier performer in serious jeopardy, says a little rest may be all he needs.

"Mainly, I just felt lousy," Palmer recounted of his poor showing at the Colonial Invitational at Fort Worth, Tex. "I have been in the habit of taking time off from golf during the fall—from September until late December. But I haven't done this for the last four or five years. I've been too busy."

"The result is I've picked up some bad golfing habits. I'm not hitting the ball well at all. These are some of the bugs in my game I have to get rid of."

The game's all-time leading money-winner shot a 299 in the Colonial last weekend, 20 strokes off the pace and one of his poorest competitive rounds in years.

Though he said nothing about it at the time, it was disclosed that Palmer had a painful cyst on his back during the tourney, which hampered his walking and swinging.

Admits Cyst

"It's true I have a cyst and it gave me some trouble," he admitted Monday. "I saw a doctor there but there was no operation. I thought about pulling out, but decided against it."

"I think what I need most of all is to get away from golf for a while. For the next week I won't do anything. I won't touch a club. I'll just piddle around the house. Then next week I'll start practicing a bit."

Palmer, well down the list of money winners this season, failed in his bid for a fourth Masters crown last month at Augusta, Ga. The tourney was won by Jack Nicklaus, who also bested Palmer.

Joe Schabot Makes Debut, Gives 4 Hits

Joe Schabot, a sophomore prospect, made his first varsity start a success yesterday as Kingston High beat Saugerties, 7-2, in a thrilling eight inning battle at the losers' diamond. The visitors scored a seventh inning run to tie the game and then tallied five more in the eighth to win it.

Schabot, a hard throwing lefthander, allowed only four hits, all singles, in the eight innings. He had some control trouble walking six but he offset the passes with eight strikeouts in an impressive performance.

Sophomore Andy Wood was the loser for the Sawyers. He went seven strong innings but was taken out midway through the eighth in favor of Bruce Owens, who became eligible yesterday.

Coach Al Gruner's nine tallied in the first frame when Dave Horton doubled, went to third on an out, and after Paul Natale walked, they pulled a double steal with Horton scoring.

A single by Glenn Davis, a fielders choice and an over-throw enabled the Sawyers to knot the count in the second. They moved ahead in the fourth as Mike Brady walked to start the uprising. On an attempted bunt, the ball was missed and when catcher Paul Natale threw to second base, nobody was covering. This sent Brady to third and he tallied as Davis hit a sacrifice fly to right field.

Knot the Game

Wood went into the seventh with the 2-1 margin but he walked Horton to start the frame. Mike Canning then sacrificed and when the throw went into the outfield, Horton reached third and Canning first. Bob Smith hit an infield roller and Horton beat the throw home, knotting the count.

The Sawyers had a chance in their half when Davis singled and was bunted to second. Wood then grounded deep into the hole at shortstop, Canning backhanded the ball and his throw to first nailed the hitter. Schabot fanned John Crispino to retire the side.

Wood dug his own hole when he plunked Nick Berardi with a pitch to start the eighth. After Paul Gruner hit into a forceout on an attempted bunt, Ronnie Thomas delivered his third hit, a ringing single. Schabot then rapped a doubleplay ball but it was bobbled and the bases were loaded.

Owen came in at this point and Bob Ploss greeted him with a base hit, breaking the tie. A successful bunt by Canning made a walk to Smith reloaded the sacks and Natale promptly cleaned them with a double to right field.

Schabot disposed of the home side in the last of the eighth to preserve his first pitching victory.

Saugerties is now 10-4 for the season. Coach Bill Straub's nine will play at Red Hook on Thursday and at Beacon on Friday. Kingston is 6-4 and will host Port Jervis Thursday in a DUSO game.

So Says Psychiatrist

Mass Suggestion Motivates Current Hysteria Over Mets

NEW YORK (AP)—You don't have to be nuts to be a Met baseball fan, but it helps. This is a scientific fact. We got it straight from the psychiatrist's couch.

Intrigued by repeated suggestions that the new breed now whooping it up for Casey Stengel's ragamuffin Polo Grounders consists of a weird mixture of complexes and suppressed desires, we decided to find out for ourselves.

We called the American Mental Health Foundation, Inc. The Foundation referred us to Vladimir G. Eliasberg, M. D., Ph.D., psychiatrist, psychoanalyst, psychologist, in New York.

It is abnormal, the doctor was asked, for people suddenly to go wild over an inept, chronically losing baseball team which is struggling to stay out of the cellar?

"It is mass suggestion," said Dr. Eliasberg, leaning back in the swivel-chair of his elegantly upholstered and carpeted office. "It's a 'mathematical' situation with passions multiplied by the en-masse factor."

"It is as contagious as a disease. When a group stands up and yells wildly—as the Met fans do—no one dares not to follow suit. Failure to do so would mean ostracism."

Defeatist Complex

Why the Mets? Why don't these people unleash their imprisoned emotions on some other team?

"It is characteristic that masses latch on to a cause that, apparently is destined for defeat," the psychiatrist explained.

Did the moving of the Giants and Dodgers to the Pacific Coast have anything to do with the growth of this violent new baseball spirit?

"Assuredly," the doctor said. "This is the mechanism of rejection."

How do the Mets satisfy this need?

"The Mets provide a new, shiny toy."

And—crucially, 73-year-old Casey Stengel—who he provide the having-nothing Met fans with the father image?

"It's very important," Dr. Eliasberg said. "Just as in politics, this venerable figure offers the added comfort of a father, a leader who knows and can do all."

Why don't they cheer for the Yankees?

"That," replied the doctor, with a knowing smile, "is like cheering for U.S. Steel."

Hurley Minor League

Tryouts for Hurley Minor league candidates will take place on Sunday, May 26, 2 p. m. at the Hurley Little league field on Route 28.

Boys should be accompanied by parents when attending the tryouts. He must reach his eighth birthday by Aug. 1 of this year and should not be 13 years of age by July 31 of this year.

Handy Hands

If the grip is correct, the wrists will cock themselves. The hands, supplemented by the stance, take care of the other coordinated phases of the swing. If your swing has gone away, the first thing you should check is the grip. Maybe you have been employing the wrong grip, for you. A grip that works well with weak hands might not prove so effective for a golfer with big strong hands.

A teaching professional can recommend the grip that is best suited to you. A good instructor can check your stance and swing to see if you are straying from the basics to which you must adhere if you are to play well.

When I see a new player, the first thing I look at is his hands. If his grip looks good at the address and his fingers have firm control of the club at the top of the backswing, I figure he probably has the makings.

When Sam Snead came out of nowhere in 1937, his hands were right. I knew his swing would stand up.

It did, as you know if you watched him play Jack Nicklaus at Pebble Beach, Calif., on Shell's Wonderful World of Golf 26 years later.

Attention L. L. Officials

Little League games played in Kingston area must be reported by 9 a. m. the day following the game. Teams outside the Kingston area are granted a 24-hour deadline.

Scores must be reported on the regulation Daily Freeman scoresheets which will be furnished to all leagues on request.

The boxscore should show the following information:

Full names and positions of all players; score by innings, doubles, triples, home runs; pitching summaries, including walks and strikeouts for each pitcher.

When more than one pitcher is used on either side, the winning and losing pitchers must be noted.

It is important that the name of the league be indicated. This is one of the most frequent omissions in reporting scores.

KHS Net Team Beats Newburgh

Despite the fact that Pete Roberts, the No. 1 man was beaten, Kingston High school's tennis team scored victories in the next four matches to beat Newburgh, 4-1, yesterday. It was the fourth win in six outings for Coach John J. Gilligan's team which plays at Catskill today.

Colgate Grid Captain Wins Medal of Merit

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Eric Orke, captain of Colgate's 1963 football team, is the winner of an Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference Medal of Merit for his academic and athletic achievements.

The medal is awarded annually to outstanding student athletes by the 132 colleges in the conference.

Orke, of Rockaway, N.J., is a tackle on the football team and has received a letter for two years in both football and track. He maintained an A average last fall while playing on the football team.

Capture Nine Firsts

Onteora Runners Rout Ellenville High, 76-46

Eric Stoutenburgh and Barry Hopkins remained undefeated in their specialties, as Onteora Central triumphed captured nine of 14 firsts to crush Ellenville High, 76-46, in a dual track meet on the Ellenville cinders.

Stoutenburgh copped the 180-yard hurdles in 22.5 seconds and Hopkins romped home in a good 4:58 clocking in the mile. Strong headwinds buffeted the sprinters and kept winning times below normal.

Winners for Coach Bernie Stahl's squad besides Stoutenburgh and Hopkins, included: Steve Gilligan (100); Walt Horodyski (2-mile run); Richard Johnson (440); Fred Kaseman (880); John Irwin (discus); Bill Gilmor (pole vault). Onteora captured the 880-yard relay in 1 minute, 41 seconds, with a quartet that included Gilligan, Hawkins, Daughtrey and Stoutenburgh.

Butch Warnke blasted two home runs, one with the bases loaded, as Middletown outslugged Newburgh Free Academy, 10-5, in a DUSO game yesterday at the winners' diamond.

In another circuit tilt, Poughkeepsie scored seven runs in the eighth inning to beat Port Jervis, 11-6.

Team Standings Won Lost
Newburgh 3 1
Middletown 3 1
Kingston 2 2
Poughkeepsie 2 2
Port Jervis 0 4

Warnke hit his first round-tripper in the fourth with one runner on base. This put the Middies ahead. Then in the sixth, the home side had only a 6-5 lead when he teed off again. Both balls were hit over the left field trees and out into the street.

They were titanic clouts.

Mike McConnell hammered two doubles and a triple to pace Poughkeepsie to its decision over the Raiders. The Raiders erupted for their seven runs in the eighth and then stopped a belated PJ rally.

Just Crazy In The AL

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

So, the Boston Red Sox are in second place in the American League. So, what's so funny about that?

Aren't the Chicago White Sox, like Boston, a prime pre-season choice for the second division, running in front? And the Kansas City Athletics, another pick for the lower echelon, a close third?

And aren't New York's mighty Yankees struggling along in fourth with the other contenders stringing behind?

It's just a crazy, mixed-up race, that's all.

The Red Sox put the slug on the Washington Senators 8-5 Monday night and the Los Angeles Angels whipped the White Sox 7-3 in the only games on the AL schedule.

The results eased Boston into the runner-up spot, one game back of Chicago and 10 percentage points ahead of the A's, and put the Angels into a sixth-place tie with Cleveland at the 500 level.

Colts Ton Mets

In the only National League game, the Houston Colts climbed out of sole occupancy of the cellar with their fifth straight victory, outlasting the New York Mets 4-2 in a runaway turned cliffhanger. Houston now shares ninth place with Milwaukee.

The Red Sox belted seven extras among their 11 hits, including a three-run homer by Bob Tillman in the sixth inning that stood up as the clincher.

Washington starter Don Rudolph was routed in the first.

Tall Gene Conley was credited with the pitching victory, his second in three decisions, with strong help from Dick Radatz.

The Angels also went on a long-ball binge in beating Chicago for the second time in a row, while the White Sox had a frustrating evening on the bases.

Wagner Hits 7th

Leon Wagner smacked his seventh homer and two singles for Los Angeles, Ed Sadowski homered and singled, George Thomas hit a homer, and Jim Fregosi cracked a triple and two-run double.

The White Sox blew several chances but the big one was in the second—when they managed just on run on four singles and an Angel error.

Houston right-hander Bob Bruce turned back the Mets on just two hits and struck out 11 through eight innings but lost his shut out and complete game bid with two away in the ninth.

Bruce walked leadoff man Duke Snider in the ninth, got the next two Mets, but then hit pinch hitter Choo Choo Coleman and walked Charlie Neal.

After yielding a pinch two-run single to Chris Camizarro, Bruce was relieved by Don McMahon, who struck out Cliff Cook.

Roger Craig allowed eight Coit hits and the Mets committed four errors, with misplays by Craig and Tim Harkness leading to two unearned runs.

Cashara Shoots 656 in Masters

Mike Cashara led the final session of the Plaza Masters league with a 656 triple, stroking 212, 229 and 215. Runnerup was Angie Fondino with 254, 192 and 183 for 629.

Fondino-Grimaldi captured the circuit title, winning three games from Greco Bros. Dick Howard anchored 194, 181 and 224 for 599 to pace the winners. John Chalmers added 214-577, Tom Carlino 234-573, Rich Dulin 532 and Mike Carlino 518.

Other high shooters were Kildy Corrado 200-542, Fred Ferraro 212-554, Gil Scherer, 209-574, Bob Shlightner 214-584, Dick Underhill 214-582, Tony Korich 229-557, Joe Bruno 236-580, Ralph Mayone 204-544, Harold Broskie 206-557, Herb Peterson 214-569, Jack Houghtaling 215-531, Mitzie Arlensky 551, Grant Teetsel 561, Mark Nezhik 204, Vince Carpino 546, Harry Bliss 568, Chet Herringshaw 214-531, Chris Gallo 541.

Results: Fondino-Grimaldi 3, Greco Bros. 0; Kamps Insurance 3, Statewide Upholstery 0; Capri 3, A. J. Scarselli 0; Nicky Carl 2½, Sickler's Delivery ½.

Pigeon Race Won By Thruway Loft

Thruway Loft owned by Ray Uresk and John Keller of Tillson won first place in the 200-mile pigeon race sponsored by the Rondout Valley Pigeon Club. The winning birds achieved an average speed of 1,077.25 yards per minute. Thruway Loft also took fourth place with an average speed of 1,071.70 yards.

The Joe Moculski loft of Port Ewen was second, averaging 1,071.44 yards per minute. Ponderosa Loft, owned by Phil and Lewis Dorio of Highland, placed third with an average of 1,072.76.

There were 82 birds entered from eight lofts. Another 200-mile race is scheduled Sunday.

Tom Williams Hurls No-Hitter Rondout Tigers Get 6-1 Win

Tom Williams hurred a no-hitter as the Tigers walloped the Braves, 6-1, in a Rondout Valley league game. Darkness halted the proceedings after the fourth frame.

Shortstop Bernie Schaefer tripled for the winners and Tom Becker stroked a double and single. Williams walked three and struck out eight in going the distance. Bill Parete was the loser.

Line score:

Braves 0 1 0 0—1 0
Tigers 2 0 2 2—6 4

William Parete, James White and Dennis White; Tom Williams and Harry Lyons.

Dodgers Win, 7-6, Over Braves

The Dodgers scored four runs in the last of the sixth to beat the Braves, 7-6, in the opening game of the Sauterites Little league. The Braves are defending champions.

Terpening had three hits for the winners while Benham had the same number for the Braves.

Trailing, 3-2, starting the fifth, the visitors tallied three times in that inning and added another in the sixth before falling before the rally by the Dodgers.

Braves 2 0 0 3 1—6 7
Dodgers 0 0 3 0 4—7 11

The tournament, which opened April 4, ends next Monday.

Wells Captures Accord Feature

Taking the lead from Harry Brazeo on the 18th lap, Howard Wells of White Lake captured the 25-lap stock feature at Accord Speedway. The early leader, Ernie Beesmer, conked out on the 10th lap.

Ken Coddington, driving a Henry J., won the crashing sedan feature, with Bob Chase second and Stanley Temple in third place.

A Powder Puff derby has been scheduled for Sunday, May 19. Highlight of the race will be the return to competition of Dell McIntyre, a leading lady driver with several years racing experience at Rhinebeck.

The results by heats:

Sportsmen—1. Skip Waterfall; 2. Harry Brazeo; 3. Floyd Curry; 2nd Heat—1. Howie Wells; 2. Gene Temple; 3. John Dill.

Consolation—1. Ernie Beesmer; 2. Donnie Smith; 3. Herb Gray; 2nd Heat—1. Bob Chase; 2. Ken Coddington; 3. Bob Chase; second heat—1. Gordon Hall; 2. George Montano; 3. Don Shaw.

Wills, who suffered a severe ankle wrench in the opening game this year at Chicago, still is a bit hobbled, and going in either direction for a ball isn't going to help the healing process. But at third base he won't have so much ground to cover, and his powerful throwing arm is ideal for the long throw to first.

Alston says Wills, who was used at third Sunday as the Dodgers swept their three-game series with the San Francisco Giants, will be back there tonight against Philadelphia. Alston is interested in shoring his defenses—and with good reason. The Dodgers are the worst fielding team in the majors, the statistics disclose.

BATTING — Leon Wagner, Angels, had three hits, including seventh homer of the season, and drove in two runs in 7-3 victory over Chicago White Sox.

PITCHING—Bob Bruce, Colts, allowed three hits and struck out 11 in gain 8 2-3 innings as Houston beat New York Mets 4-2.

Harriett Meister of Madison, Wis., had the best division one singles score but her 610 also failed to crack the top ten. Dot Wilkinson of Phoenix leads the high average bracket with 633.

The tournament, which opened April 4, ends next Monday.

MEMPHIS (AP)—The top ten standings remained firm in all divisions Monday in the Woman's International Bowling Congress Tournament.

Linbrook Bowl of Anaheim, Calif., remained in first place in division one team standings with a 2.841. The State Water Heater team of Houston had the best score Monday in this category, but their 2.666 was not good enough to make the standings.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Age-40 Law if they offer less than the minimum wages. Beginning September 3, 1963, employers engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.10 an hour and at least time and one-half for hours worked after 40 in a workweek, unless specifically exempt. Employees of certain large retail, service, construction, and other enterprises must be paid not less than $1.10 an hour after September 3, 1961, but no overtime for such employment is required until September 3, 1963. If you are offered less than the minimum wages, or if you have questions concerning this law or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at Bronx: Abraham Kleinbard, Investigation Supr., 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. WYandolite 2-1235.

Says Some UR Jobs Should Go It Alone

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Certain state-assisted urban renewal projects should be carried out without federal participation, says James W. Gaynor, commissioner of the State Division of Housing and Community Renewal. Addressing a meeting of the New York State Association of Urban Renewal Monday, Gaynor proposed including spot renewals of limited scope in the state's assistance program. Present state law limits state financial participation to projects already under contract between a municipality and the federal government.

Nashville Scene Of Desegregation Try by Negroes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Negro students, demanding desegregation of all public accommodations, clashed with police and rock-throwing whites in a noisy 2-hour demonstration in downtown Nashville Monday night.
A few hours later, police were sent to the home of a Negro leader who said a shotgun blast fired from a car smashed through the window of his home and narrowly missed his wife.

Schedule New Meeting
Mayor Beverly Briley continued his efforts to reach a biracial accord and "preserve the peace." Negro leaders scheduled another meeting for late today to press their demands.
1. Desegregation of all public accommodations such as hotels, motels, restaurants and lunch counters. Some eating places, all downtown theaters, the baseball park and the civic auditorium are integrated.
2. Better employment opportunities for qualified Negroes.
3. Dropping of all charges now pending against students arrested while demonstrating against segregation—dating back to the start of the sit-in movement in 1960.
The shotgun blast ripped through the front window at the home of H. E. Braden, executive vice president of the Nashville Christian Leadership Council. No one was injured.

Police Arrest Five
The downtown demonstration came during the height of the dinner hour and was marked by frequent outbreaks of violence as hundreds of white persons gathered some of them hecklers, others just spectators.
Police arrested five persons, one of them white. Two others were hospitalized.
Rocks and glass showered the demonstrators as they approached two segregated restaurants, the scene of protests last week.
Several fights broke out as the Negroes marched through the city's financial district to the city jail. At one point, the Negroes wheeled in a counter-attack that sent rock-throwing whites scattering.

One of the Negroes in pursuit brandished a knife. Earlier, a white man pulled a knife.
In the confusion, a large plate glass window in a vacant building was smashed and the two forces scaled jagged slabs of glass at each other.

Much Controversy Springs From Use Of Dogs by Police

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police dogs have sprung into the news and into controversy.
Last week, Birmingham, Ala., police used them against Negro demonstrators. A blood-chilling picture of a snarling German shepherd leaping a demonstrator was seen all over the country.

PAUL WOZA, HELEN TRENHOLM, individually, and as Administratrix, etc. of Augusta Woza, deceased, THE STATE OF NEW YORK, Defendants.

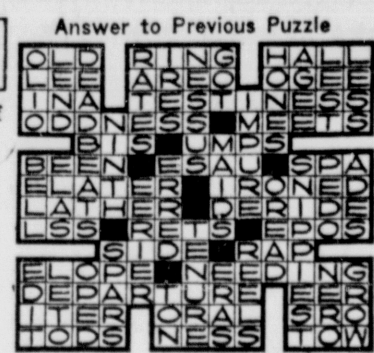

IN PURSUANCE of a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale, duly granted in the above entitled action, and entered in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on the 26th day of April, 1963, JAMES J. MURRAY, the undersigned, Referee in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the Town Clerk's Office at Main Street (no number), in the Village of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, on the 14th day of June, 1963, at 12:00 o'clock Noon, E.D.S.T., the premises described in said Judgment, as follows:
ALL THAT CERTAIN LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying and being in the Town of Rosendale and Village of Rosendale, in the County of Ulster and State of New York, and bounded and described as follows:
Commencing at a point at the southern side of the new Mountain Road (so called) running past the Walkkill Valley Railroad depot near Rosendale Village aforesaid; at Cornelius Buckley's westerly line opposite the center of the rock on the said mountain road, the southerly side thereof, distant 224 feet westerly from the Walkkill Valley Railroad westerly line and running thence as the needle pointed in 1974 as follows: South 32° 30' West along the southerly side of said Mountain Road, 50 feet thence south 34° 30' East 176 feet and 8 inches more or less to lands late of Hardenburgh Delamater, thence south 79° 40' East about 70 feet and 5 inches along said Delamater line to Cornelius Buckley's line; thence north 34° 30' West along Cornelius Buckley's line 227 feet and 5 inches more or less to the place of beginning, together with a right of way of 8 feet wide to the rear of said lot through the rear of the lot of John B. James of not more than 8 feet wide said right of way to be used exclusively by the said party of the second part and his heirs and assigns and for no other purpose whatsoever.

BEING the same premises conveyed to Paul Woza by Francis Hubert by deed dated May 17, 1921 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office May 18, 1921 in Book 482 of deeds at page 214.
ALL THAT CERTAIN LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND situate, lying and being in the Town of Rosendale, County of Ulster and State of New York, and bounded and described as follows:
BEGINNING at a point on the southerly side of the Mountain Road (so called) at lands now or formerly of Martin Burns, and runs thence south 55° 30' West 32 feet and 6 inches; thence south 23° West 99 feet and six inches or to the lands now or formerly of Hardenburgh Delamater; thence along the line of said Hardenburgh Delamater South 79° 40' East 155 feet more or less to Martin Burns westerly line; thence north 34° 30' West 162 feet more or less to the point of place of beginning. All the courses are as the needle pointed in May 1874. Subject to a certain right of way over and across said plot of not more than 8 feet in width as granted to Martin Burns by deed of John B. James, dated Jan. 1, 1888.

BEING the same lands and premises conveyed by John E. Hardenburgh and Henrietta S. Hardenburgh his wife to Paul Woza and Sophia Woza, his wife, by Warranty Deed dated June 1, 1922 and recorded July 19, 1922 in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book 490 at page 439.

The parcel secondly above described (BD 490/439) was conveyed by Paul Woza to Augusta Woza by deed dated November 19, 1953 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office November 21, 1953 in Liber 949 of Deed at page 975; the said Paul Woza reserved a life use of said premises and the said Augusta Woza made certain covenants in relation thereto as appears more fully from the record of said deed in the Ulster County Clerk's Office.

It is the purpose and intention of this mortgage to mortgage unto the mortgagee all rights and interests of the mortgagors in and to all of the foregoing lots of land so that said mortgagee shall hold the first lien and encumbrance against said premises.
Dated at the Village of Walden, N. Y., this 3rd day of May, 1963.

High Court Gets DA-Paper Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—A dispute between the Onondaga County district attorney and the Syracuse Post-Standard over criminal contempt indictments against the newspaper, its publisher and three top editors has been sent to the state's highest court.

Certificate of Leave
Associate Judge Stanley H. Fuld, after a hearing Monday in the Court of Appeals chambers, granted a "certificate of leave," to appeal the case to the full court in Albany during its fall term in September.

The case began when Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Ryan had indictments brought by a grand jury accusing the paper of "a false and inaccurate report of the proceedings of the Onondaga County Court"—involving a probe of jail conditions.
County Judge Donald H. Mead dismissed the indictments.

The district attorney appealed to the Fourth Department of the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court, which reinstated the indictments last April 12.
The newspaper then asked for a review of the ruling by the court of appeals, which resulted in Monday's hearing.

Indicted with the paper were

Henry H. Keller, publisher; Mario Rossi, managing editor; John N. Whitney, city editor; and Loran Bailey, news editor.

The indictments involved a story on July 19, 1962, quoting Percy Lee Holloway Jr. as saying he was struck and threatened with a revolver by Sgt. Thomas Sardino, an inspector on the district attorney's staff, during an investigation of alleged immorality in the jail.

Not in Official Minutes
Actually, the indictments said, the man did not refer to the sergeant but to another police officer and no such accusations were made in the official minutes of the court proceedings.

The newspaper said it carried the story in its later editions but removed it from the final editions when its accuracy was questioned. The paper also said later it carried explanatory stories in all its editions.
